Munsey and the Eagle. Nervous Americans. Ever Hear of Lockyer? Leisure, Study, Thought.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Frank Munsey, studying news from his lofty perch in the New York Sun-Herald Building, can see trouble or joy as far as the eagle can see a young lamb. Had Eliza been a business fact, and Munsey her bloodhound, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" would have ended differently. Munsey would have caught Eliza and eaten the baby.

Business men get from Munsey this interesting suggestion: "Watch the London markets, where foodstuffs suddenly rose yesterday 10 to 20 per cent., and at the same time cotton dropped 100 points. Ten days before the great war started in 1914 the same peculiar twist was taken by the quotations from London."

Munsey doesn't tell you that war is coming, but he does tell you that the London market acts as though expecting war. That interests business men.

In the Olympic games Americans are winning in contests that require extreme nervous energy, combined with great physical force. An American wins the 440 metres race over hurdles in 54 seconds, breaking the record. Another American wins the 100 metres.

Another, in a high jump, at the first attempt, clears 6 feet 4¼ inches and wins, breaking records. Reach up on the wall to that height and see what energy it must take to clear it.

Intensity of energy displayed by Americans at Antwerp is a good sign for the hundred million Americans at home.

It is especially interesting to observe the numerous achievements of athletes from California. The climate evidently was made for white men. Indians that lived there formerly were among the most sluggish and cowardly. They hadn't enough energy to kill deer or each other, so they ate grasshoppers. This may interest our good friends in Japan.

Say to the first man in the street, "Lockyer is dead." Ten thousand to one, he will answer, "Is that so; who is Lockyer?" Say to the same man, "Jack Dempsey is dead." He will stop you for fuller information.

Lockyer was only an "eminent scientist, director of a great observatory of solar physics, eminent astronomer." He never knocked anybody out in his life.

We are surprised sometimes that a hundred million people take so little interest in their government and are so easily managed by profiteers. The future will not be surprised when it learns that of our hundred millions, ten thousand were interested in a prize fighter, baseball player or jockey to one interested in a scientist.

If you went to the saboon country and discovered citizens interested chiefly in rhinoceros meat and wooden idols with pink eyes and blue hair you would say, "It will take some time to civilize this people."

You may say the same about your own people. It will be a long time before they will have self-government, because it will be a long time before they are fit for it.

However, all is not black and pessimistic. The waters of Bridge River in British Columbia are to be harnessed to turbines and made to yield 400,000 h. p. There is progress. When you make a waterfall your slave, you give men a chance to study, learn and think.

No education without leisure. No improvement without education. Aristotle knew it when he said there could be no civilization without slavery. He didn't know that waterfalls would be our slaves, electricity our messenger, that steel wheels would carry the load, and steel fingers make the cloth.

Some liberties are taken. Then, to cheer us, others are granted. Free speech and free thinking have lost their freedom here. Free speech now means freedom to say what is thought by those in authority.

On the other hand, the ladies in Chicago's interesting county jail are told by Warden Lee that hereafter they may smoke cigarettes. The warden says, "We are living in an age of women's rights, and I will let the women smoke if they will put the burnt ends of the matches back in the match box."

If you are a lady and say what you think, as did Rose Pastor Stokes, they will probably put you in jail. On the other hand, once you are in jail, even though you be a lady, you will be allowed to smoke cigarettes. To every cloud a silver lining.

The old story in France about too few births is moving over here. The government says that baby carriage sales have fallen off 50 per cent. The birth rate has fallen 35 per cent. Some that had babies didn't have the modern price of a baby carriage or lacked room to store it.

To offset this news, behold, from Stockholm. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Paulsen bring fifteen children with them, from four months to nineteen years old. They expect no labor trouble on their ranch in Minnesota. If trouble comes they will send back for their four married children. The entire family circle, nephews, nieces, etc., includes two hundred boys and girls.

BURRELL WARNED BY COOLIDGE

NEW PONZI ARREST

Henry T. Neilsen of No. 261 Sidney street, Cambridge, a former agent of Charles Ponzi and, according to tre police, one of his secret partners, was arrested today. Neilsen, who had been sought on a John Doe warrant, surrendered at police headquarters, w here he had gone accompanied by a bondsman. He was charged with the larceny of $500 from an unknown person.

After the necessry proceedings were gone through, Neilsen was taken to the Municipal court, where arrangements were made to admit him to bail, which was offered by Michael B. Nazzaro of the North End.

Neilsen, who said he was 36 years old and married, was originally a meat cutter who became one of Ponzi's chief salesmen and remained loyal to his employer to the last. Up to the time of Ponzi's arrest, according to the police, the two men were in constant communication and frequently dined together in Boston hotels.

The salesman, who was born in Denmark, was said to have made his headquarters at a branch of the Securities Exchange Company ot No. 258 Washington street. This office also was occupied by John A. Dondero and Harry O. Mahoney.

According to the police, Neilsen became acquainted with Ponzi while working as a meat cutter in a market in Davis square, West Somerville.

He entered Ponzi's employ in May and a short time later purchased a $3,700 motor car, in which he took many friends and acquaintances on trips. Neilsen, who, with his wife and fourteen-year-old son, occupied two rooms in the Sidney street house, also was said to have a Summer place on Shore Drive, Winthrop.

It was reported that he was extremely successful in disposing of Ponzi's notes to his neighbors, particularly to employes of the North American Chemical Company. Many of these employes, it was said, lost considerable sums as a result of Ponzi's crash.

Shortly after the arrest of the "financial prestidigitator," a John Doe warrant was secured by Attorney-General Allen for Neilsen.

A new warrant, issued today, has been secured by the authorities in connection with the affairs of Ponzi, now in East Cambridge Jail, and another arrest is momentarily expected.

The latest warrant was for a man whose name the police refused to give out, but whose present location is known.

Will "Outlaw" Banks on Burrell's List

Declaring that the alleged use by State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell of his official position to obtain bank advertising for his personal advertising agency "is a practice not likely to inspire public confidence," Governor Coolidge today stated with emphasis that "this practice has g ot to stop."

With this declaration, Governor Coolidge reaffirmed his decision to refuse to approve as State depositories any banks which place advertising through the Burrell agency.

The report that Governor Coolidge has been informed of the identity of at least three Boston banks which are doing their advertising business through the Burrell agency was closely followed by the report that the Governor recently requested Burrell to discontinue the practice, but without avail.

It is reported that the Governor talked to Mr. Burrell as a personal friend and as a party worker who has been a candidate on the same ticket with him.

Burrell, it is said, asserted that he was capable of managing the

BIRTHDAY INVITATION

On September 17th next we celebrate our sixth birthday. Our depositors and the general public are invited to celebrate it with us, at our banking building, where we will keep open house and remember our guests with appropriate souvenirs of the day.

We look back with pride on our achievements. We have prospered and grown beyond fondest dreams.

Our progress has been steady, even when the poisoned tongue of jealousy and envy aimed its fangs at us. Our constant effort to make this bank one of service and strength and the synonym of the square deal in banking has triumphed, and today we stand among the leading trust companies in the City of Boston.

Several things have contributed to our success, among them are the soundness of our loans and investments, the personnel of our executive board and our fair dealing with depositors.

Our loans and investments are among the best. They are as liquid as possible. In our savings department our losses have been next to nothing and in our commercial department they compare favorably with any bank in the State. Our credit man knows his business and our investments are made through some of the most reliable investment houses in the State.

Our mounting net surplus and undivided profits, which total $570,026.00, and our assets of over $20,000,000 reflect the success of our institution.

Our Executive and examining committees typify integrity and sagacious judgment and the virtues they have displayed in private and public life they have shown in their public trust as officers of this bank. The confidence we have earned was to be expected with such men as directing our affairs.

We have been fair with our depositors. Banks are now charging more interest and getting higher rates on investments. Earnings are more than usual, and consequently interest and stock dividends can be higher.

Some banks prefer to divide increased earnings with stockholders and are paying from ten to twenty per cent to them.

We prefer to divide our increased earnings with our savings depositors rather than with our stockholders and this among other things explains the higher interest paid to our depositors.

We started out to be a bank of the people. We have kept faith with them and want them to celebrate our success with us.

PONZI AGENT, ACCUSED OF LARCENY, SURRENDERS TO POLICE

RENEW EFFORT TO UNTANGLE FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

tion was known to have been discovered.

He will be taken into custody shortly.

The officials would make no statement regarding the identity of the mysterious person for whom the new warrant was secured, but he is believed to have been closely associated with Ponzi. It is understood that this man can render considerable aid in untangling the snarl of Ponzi's affairs.

The arrest of two men are part of the latest drive by the authorities in an attempt to clear up the affairs of Ponzi and learn definitely the status of his liabilities.

"In connection with this drive, various agents in Lynn, Plymouth, Lawrence, Manchester and other cities of New England are being rounded up and questioned closely as to the amount of business they did and what became of the money.

Ponzi today estimated his losses due to forgeries between $50,000 and $100,000. The exact figure will not be known until the audit is completed by Edwin L. Pride.

Ponzi said that he had engaged Handwriting Expert William E. Hingston to prove that notes were raised from $50 to $500 and from $100 to $1,000. Attorney Daniel V. McIsaac is also of the opinion that his client was the victim of swindlers.

RENEW EFFORT TO FREE PONZI.

With the naming of a receiver today by Judge Morton of the Federal court, Ponzi's counsel renewed efforts to reach an agreement in the matter of bail. It is reported that the receiver would be greatly aided by Ponzi, if released from the East Cambridge jail, in assembling the speculator's assets and that Attorney-General J. Weston Allen may be prevailed upon by Ponzi's counsel to come to terms, allowing Ponzi to live in a downtown hotel where he can be easily reached by the receiver.

Although denying that he knew of any intention to be named as receiver, it was reported from various sources that William H. Sears, a representative of the Boston Legal Aid Society, who attended the bankruptcy hearing, may be selected by Judge Morton.

If Ponzi's counsel and Attorney-General Allen can agree on the amount of bail for the release of the accused, action to free Ponzi may be taken immediately after his arraignment tomorrow in the Federal court on charges of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. He could be taken to the Pemberton square court and trolled after answering to the blanket warrant charging fifty-three counts of larceny.

HOLD OUT FOR $100,000 BAIL.

McIsaac is reported as holding out for $50,000 while Allen is said to be demanding $100,000. Added to the $25,000 wanted for Ponzi's release from East Cambridge jail, the figure reported as asked by Allen would make the defendant's total bonds $125,000 and his friends question if he can raise this amount.

McIsaac visited his client and held a long conference with him in the jail. The loyal little wife of the accused also spent an hour with him and after leaving the jail told newspapermen that she would gladly relinquish all claim to the Lexington mansion, limousine and household effects to aid in settling her husband's debts.

Millions poured into Ponzi's unequipped and undermanned School street office with such bewildering rapidity that system and caution were beyond possibility. An expert in foreign exchange employed by Ponzi to reorganize and perfect his office system said he was astounded at the "kindergarten methods."

Mere boys received deposits and paid out principal and interest on matured notes and the money came in such a deluge at times there is evidence that Ponzi handled $14,000,000 in a span of weeks—that greenbacks of all denominations were kept in waste paper baskets during rush hours.

LIBERTY BOND MYSTERY.

The mystery that veiled the fate of the Liberty Bonds bought by Ponzi said to aggregate $250,000 was partly lifted by Attorney Daniel V. McIsaac, who stated that Ponzi told him he had given Liberty Bonds to the Hanover Trust Company as surety on loans after his funds had been tied up by official investigation.

Ponzi bought heavy consignments of Liberty bonds from a State street firm. How many of them he surrendered to the Hanover Trust company to secure loans, is not known. William S. McNary, chairman of the board of directors and treasurer of the Hanover Trust Company told reporters the day before the bank was closed by order of Bank Examiner Allen, that Ponzi had removed personal properties from the safety vault of the bank on the previous Saturday.

McNary did not say whether he knew the nature and value of these assets. It was believed the Liberty bonds may have been part of the property removed.

Attorney-General Allen sat on the bench with Judge Morton in the United States District Court for some time following the hearing on the petitions for a receiver. They chatted earnestly while the case of Philip Horne, an alleged deserter, was being called.

ALLEN OPPOSES McISAAC.

It was also noted that Judge Morton called Allen to the bench earlier in the day immediately after the receivership session adjourned.

The attorney-general opposed Attorney McIsaac plea for a board of three receivers, one of whom should be friendly to Ponzi, in order as counsel explained, that said receiver might collect any surplus on Ponzi's behalf if the accused proved to be solvent.

Attorney McIsaac explained that Ponzi insisted that his assets would amount to $1,000,000 and that his liabilities might not total more than $8,000,000.

Attorney-General Allen said the Ponzi liabilities had reached $3,000,000 before yesterday's mail had been opened, and that the creditors would probably aggregate 10,000. He also stated that Ponzi told him he had bought 1,400 shares of the Hanover Trust Company. Allen pointed out that the interest of the Commonwealth transcended that of any creditor or group of creditors.

DENY DONDERO INVOLVED.

The attempt of Attorneys Horblit and Wasserman to make John Dondero of Medford and Guglimio Bertolotti of Parma, Italy, partner to the receivership and bankruptcy proceedings as business partners of Ponzi was opposed. Horblit explained that the names of these men appeared on the certificate filed by Ponzi's firm, the Securities Exchange Company, in the office of the city clerk.

Attorney Bailen explained that Dondero was not a business partner of Ponzi. He said Dondero had simply invested money and had induced relatives to deposit with Ponzi, but had never authorized Ponzi to list him as a partner. Attorney Bailen further declared that the so-called partner Bertolotti in Parma, Italy, was dead and that he could produce evidence of his death.

Attorney-General Allen and Attorney McIsaac admitted that Ponzi had confided to them that he was in the business alone and solely responsible.

Coolidge Orders Banks Give Up State Funds or Burrell

Banks and trust companies holding State funds must discontinue business with the advertising agency of State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell or be denied the right to act as State depositaries. This is the decision of Governor Coolidge, following the criticisms of the State Treasurer for doing business with banks and trust companies both as a private individual and a State official, the aftermath of the Hanover Trust fiasco.

The Hanover Trust Company placed advertising through the Fred J. Burrell Advertising Agency. Funds of the State to the amount of $125,000 were on deposit in the suspended institution. The amount was, however, 40 per cent less than authorized by law. No charge of illegality is made in connection with the deposit, only the ethics of his dual capacity is under question.

Power to refuse banks the right to hold State funds is invested in the Governor and his council. The treasurer submits his selections of banks as State depositaries for approval at least once every three months. Another will be reported when Burrell is continuing to do business with the Burrell agency when its existing three-month approval expires, Governor Coolidge announced.

Ponzi Wanted Loan to Go Into Business

Bangor, August 18.—A Bangor man who has business interests in Boston and who spends a part of his time in that city tells some interesting stories of Charles Ponzi.

Late in November, 1918, Ponzi, who at that time was employed by a Boston firm of importers, approached the Bangor man for a loan to enable him to start in business. His scheme was to publish a trade journal, devoted largely to advertising goods for export, and as a side line he suggested that money might be made in foreign exchange. The Bangor man refused to go into the scheme.

Last Spring a friend of the Bangor man met him in Boston and asked advice about investments. Inquiring if there was any money to be made in foreign trade, The Bangor man thought of Ponzi and telephoned to ask if he would care to take him friend into partnership. Ponzi said that since last November he had made $100,000, and that his business was running into thousands of dollars daily.

The Bangor man decided to investigate. He bought some thousands of francs and cabled to his agents in France to invest in reply coupons. The answer came back that the sale of these coupons had been practically stopped May 1 in France and April 1 in Italy. The cable added that six months earlier millions might have been made in the coupon scheme.

MOVES TO BLOCK BURRELL

Governor to Withhold Funds From Banks Using Agency Run by Treasurer

State's business without interference and that he has at no time interwoven the State's business with his own private agency.

It was following this conference that Governor Coolidge decided to withhold his approval from the banks that are placing their advertising with Burrell, it is said.

If Burrell continues to deposit State money with the banks to be "hallowed" by Governor Coolidge, he will do so at his own personal risk, the governor said.

The State Treasurer is not confined to using banks approved as State depositories by the Governor and Council," said Governor Coolidge, "but he is personally responsible under the law if he loses any of the State money deposited in banks not so approved.

"I am not going to approve any banks that are proposing to continue Mr. Burrell as advertising agent. They have got to discontinue that practice.

"I don't think that is the kind of a practice that is likely to improve public confidence. I am not criticizing the treasurer or the banks, but I don't want to be responsible in any way for that way of doing business. It may be legally all right, but it don't want to be in any way a party to it.

"I am not going to ask the State Treasurer for a list of the 175 State depositaries, or the amounts deposited in them, but if he understands that this method of doing business is not to be permitted, that will be enough."

The list of State depositories will come up for approval again about September 15. It is understood that the amount of State money available for deposit in them varies between $2,000,000 and $6,000,000.

LAWRENCE MAN HELD ON WIFE MURDER CHARGE

Lawrence, Aug. 18.—Joseph St. Sureur of No. 39 Phillips street was held without bail in the district court, accused of the murder of his wife, Alvina. He entered a not guilty plea and was bound over to the grand jury. The daughter of the murdered woman, who met her death by stab wounds from a knife in the hands of her jealousy-enraged husband, was in the courtroom, but was refused to leave by her counsel. She was supported on the arm of her husband and appeared grief-stricken.

$50,000,000 Heir Gives His First Interview

Newest millionaire in America, Arthur T. Walker. He's so modest he didn't want to face the camera.

New York, Aug. 18.—Arthur T. Walker, America's latest multi-millionaire, who inherited $50,000,000 through the will of Edward F. Searles last week, gave his first interview today. It was just five words long. He said:

"You are wasting your time."

A flock of pencils, belonging to a group of reporters who have besieged his office daily since his sudden turn in fortune, scratched feverishly, then a door closed and the reporters were alone.

Walker had ridden to work, as usual, a passenger on the subway from Brooklyn. Those who knew him say that he will not only continue to do this, but to perform his duties as manager of the Pittsburgh & Shawmut railroad, which he now virtually owns.

Wants Part of Searles Estate

Mechanics Falls, Me., Aug. 18.—Mainly dependent on his pension, Dennis F. Marr, seventy-seven, a Civil War veteran of this town, may contest the will of the late millionaire, Edward F. Searles, of Methuen.

Marr claims to be a cousin of Mr. Searles and says that he and his brother, Alonzo Marr of Durham, Me., are of the same relation to the dead man as Mrs. Mary Allen Rowland, to whom Mr. Searles left $1,000,000 and the Methuen estate, and Edith Littlefield and Sarah H. Smith.

Marr declares he saw Mr. Searles only once, at which time Marr was five years old, and that he never corresponded with him.

ADMIRAL HUSE ORDERED TO DANZIG WITH 7 SHIPS

Washington, Aug. 18. — Admiral Huse, commanding all American naval forces in European water, has received instructions to proceed from London to Danzig. He will sail on the armored cruiser Pittsburgh and will report at once upon the necessity for further American naval forces at that port.

The admiral has been given authority to divert the cruiser St. Louis and six destroyers about to start for the Black Sea to Danzig.

GREENE PROBE BEGAN IN MAY

Attorney-General to Get Complete Audit, Asked by Stockholders, in Ten Days

A complete audit of the financial conditions of the H. V. Greene company, investment bankers, whose chain of offices extend from New England to New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, is to be in the hands of Attorney-General Allen within ten days.

With the filing of the overdue financial statement required by State law, the attorney-general disclosed that the company has been under investigation since May 1 last. The investigation was prompted by counsel for a stockholders' committee and with the Greene company officials furnishing every facility, an exhaustive examination of the company's books and accounts has been under way.

A partial report of the audit of the firm and its affiliated companies, the Commercial Finance Corporation, the Mutual Finance Corporation and the First Peoples Trust has been made. The attorney-general declared that he had not had time enough to go over it. He then issued the following statement:

"I am informed that the failure of the H. V. Greene Company to file the certificate of condition required by law was due to a misunderstanding between the attorney of the company and the certified public accountant, each one assuming that the other had attended to the matter. The information required for filing the certificate has been prepared, and the certificate was sent to me this morning, and I directed that it be filed with the commissioner of corporations.

"The H. V. Greene Company has been active in the financing of the Commercial Finances Corporation, the Mutual Finance Corporation and the First Peoples Trust.

"During the last legislative session I received numerous inquiries and complaints in regard to the H. V. Greene companies. The commissioner of banks also received inquiries, but it is not clear that under the existing statutes these companies do not come within his jurisdiction. I endeavored to secure authority from the Legislature which would enable my department to make an investigation of these and other companies, but certain members of the Senate actively opposed granting the authority needed to make those investigations and succeeded in defeating the legislation.

"About the first of May I was consulted by counsel representing a stockholders' committee in regard to a general audit of all the so-called Greene companies, to be made by certified accountants of recognized standing, and it was agreed that such an audit should be made. Every facility for that audit has been afforded by the officials of the several companies and an exhaustive examination of the books and accounts has been nearly completed. I have been given assurance that the final audit should be ready within the next few days.

"At my request a partial report of the result of the audit to date has been furnished me, and the final report will be given to me as soon as completed."

RUSSIAN RIGHT FLANK BROKEN

Soviet Statement Admits Polish Gain North of Warsaw — Rally Netted 1200 Prisoners

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 18.—Admission that the Polish counter-offensive had broken the Russian lines on the right flank of the Red army northwest of Warsaw, was contained in a Soviet War Office communique wirelessed from Moscow today.

The Russians claimed to have rallied, driving back the Poles and capturing 1,200 prisoners. The text of the communique follows:

"The Poles broke through on the Narew river. Later we drove back the Polish troops, occupying Ciechanof, on the Warsaw-Danzig railway. We captured 1,200 prisoners and seven guns.

"We advanced westward of Vladimir Volynski, south of Warsaw, and occupied Hrubieszof and a number of villages to the Southward. Tarnopol (in Galicia) and a number of points were occupied. We penetrated as far as Sebbroff."

Wrangel's Army Joyful Over French Recognition

Constantinople, Aug. 18.—The army of General Wrangel in the Crimea went wild with joy at the news from Paris that its chief had been recognized as the de facto government in South Russia, say dispatches from Sebastopol.

M. Struve, who has just returned from Paris, declares that the Wrangel land policy—the division of the great estates among the peasants with the assurances that the government will recognize their titles to the property so acquired—has been most effective in making the general popular in the Crimea.

Russia Offers to Respect Polish Independence

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 18.—The Russian armistice and peace delegation at Minsk has submitted proposals announcing Soviet Russia's intention of respecting the independence of Poland, but demanding "the landlords of Poland give guarantees against renewed attacks on Russia," said an official statement issued by the Russian embassy here and received from Minsk today.

After preliminary conversations the Poles proposed that the conference adjourn to reconvene again on August 19. The Russian delegates protested against this and insisted that the negotiations be resumed on Aug. 18. It was finally agreed that the parties should be renewed Aug. 18. The conference was opened by M. Danishevsky, and the Russians began to state their terms at once.

The negotiations referred to in the official telegram from Minsk evidently took place Monday. The reference to "Landlords" was explained in an exclusive interview given by George Tchitcherin, the Russian Soviet foreign minister, to the International News Service last Saturday. M. Tchitcherin declared that Russia would insist upon terms which would protect Soviet Russia from further attacks by "the imperialistic Polish landlords" or the great land owning gentry of Poland.

The Polish envoys at Minsk made a tenacious fight against disarmament, demanding mutual disarmament of both the Polish and Russian armies. It was learned from a semi-official source. The Poles furthermore made vigorous protest against the Russian demand for free transport facilities across Poland.

M. Danishevsky, according to a Minsk dispatch to the Manchester Guardian, informed the Poles that the Russians did not intend to dictate peace, but were ready to listen to any Polish proposals. He added that the Russians were determined that the conference should lead to peace.

NEW ENGLAND ALWAYS RIPE FOR GET-RICH-QUICK MEN

SWINDLERS FLOURISH IN BOSTON

"For Women Only" Bank—96 P. C.—Began Long List of Frauds That Still Operate

Contrary to the somewhat general belief that the blow-up of Charles Ponzi's big little game has made New England closed territory to the get-rich-quick swindler, postoffice inspector and detectives of ripe experience declared today that there are several city frauds operating hereabouts on full ice and that as these are dished up one by one there will be extra "games" to follow them.

From more than forty years, one veteran detective says, New England has been looked upon as the get-rich-quick man's easiest picking. Why this part of the United States, celebrated for rocky farms, steady habits and usual living, should be the playground of the "con" man and the "sure-thing" operator the detective could not say. He intimated that New England's reputation for hard work and frugal living may be based upon nothing more substantial than "talk."

OUR MEN ALSO "EASY."

Among others who tried to reap the golden sheaf from No. 27 school street in its branch offices in the hectic months of the roseate nineteen hundreds, who were in their late teens but in the late '90's and early '00's left the Order of the Iron Hall repulsed into a rush and soon was followed by hundreds of short-term "endowment" orders.

Thirty years ago everybody in New England, or to speak, was getting rich a la the Ponzi game. It was as easy as "fling off a pitch roof. All you had to do was join the Order of the Solid Jack, or the Brotherhood of the Golden Dawn, or the Fraternity of the Rising Sun, make 20 or 40 payments of $1 each, and in twelve months drag you little old $100.

"FOR WOMEN ONLY."

You couldn't join the same order twice or ten times. You could join 100 different orders.

There always have been, perhaps there always will be, get-rich-quick swindles. Only ones attract wide-spread attention and achieve front-page publicity—all of them, in the main, work alike the same general line. They take the sucker money at one window and they pay back some of it through another window. When pay-offs time begins to grow and the hand-it-over line thins out, the police and a prosecutor are called in.

That was the method of Mrs. Hetty Howard Bank "For Women Only" which flourished for a time back in 1890 in Boston's 5th End. Mrs. Howe offered 24 percent. interest per annum.

IRON HALL GOT WAY.

Mrs. Howe was flowed by the Iron Hall, an endowment order, which was going to pay every member $1,000 at the end of seven years. The Iron Hall began going off along about 1889, and for a year or so all who remained of the original received their money. Also about this time it became apparent that promoters and representatives of the law that in order to make good on its promise of $1,000 to every member in seven years the Iron Hall was going to need all the money in the Bank of England, all the loose change in Uncle Sam's mint and the world's total visible supply of gold. Prosecutions began in several states at once. An interesting discovery was that the order had spent, above 000 in these New England States to "influence legislation."

ALOIS CAME MILLER.

The early apparent success of the Iron Hall gave birth to a perfect horde of imitators, the "short term endowment orders." Some of these were organized in Boston up to 1895, and 34 more in the suburbs of Boston following. Then the Legislature called a halt, and new orders moved in from other states. The collapse of the game caused more of a an upsar than the downfall of Mr. Ponzi.

At least this time William Frank-lin Miller of Brooklyn, N. Y., came upon the scene. Miller was twenty-three years old. He paid 10 per cent. ...sek—it a time. They called him $75 per set Miller. So much money poured upon him from all over the East and Canada that twenty-five clerks were kept busy counting it. Miller's game was exactly like Ponzi's. He took it in at one window and he paid it out at the other—for a time. Before he was given a ride to Ossining, all state expense and with an official escort, he opened a Boston branch in Charlestown. New England went daffy and broke—over "520 per cent." who now runs a cigar little neighborhood grocery at Rockville Center, L. I.

RUBBER BUBBLE BURSTS.

For about ten years after this the get-rich-stickers worked New Knickland wearing mufflers, rubber heels and rubber gloves. They inlked in whispers. Once every three or four months, of course, somebody dug the roll out of the feather bed and took a trip to the wicked city of New York to buy "counterfeit" money, but that was all.

In 1906, however, Ferdinand S. Borges blew into Boston and the great Thero Rubber and Reclaiming Company was born. Two of its children were Thero Rubber and Thero Coffee. Borges gathered his cronis in dairy luncheons, to begin with, but it wasn't long until he was the pal of the hotel waiters, a plutocratic patron of the drama and the proud possessor of palatial offices. And O, boy! why shouldn't he have been? All that the Thero, etc., "owned" were 400,000 rubber trees, 1,000,000 pineapple trees and 1,000,000 coffee trees. Borges cleaned up about $2,000,000 in 1906, he was convicted on 73 counts of larceny.

A VERITABLE J. RUFUS.

An interesting contemporary of Borges was Cardenio F. King, who promoted the King-Crowther Oil Company and other unlisted and who was released from State prison in time to sit at home King was of the J. Rufus Wallingford type physically, a big fellow, many of whose friends remained friendly even after he was found out.

Somewhere in between the Iron Hall and the Borges-King days came a clergyman, the Rev. Pregcott Ford Jenkins, with his Plymouth Rock Pine Salts Company and—eureka—a machine to take gold from seawater. Stock in the "minister's" scheme rose from $33 to $150 a share. A plant was established at Isleboro, Maine, where the sardines come from not, It was a secret plant, with arms guards and everything. There had been a private test of the machinery down near Providence. The machine was sailed—with gold—in advance. Thousands believed in Jernegan. It cost them dearly.

SUCKERS IGNORE LESSON.

Will Panzi, then, be the last one? Veteran investigators and wise old detectives say never fear. They recall the immortal words of wise old Wilson Mizner, "there is one born every minute and two to take him."

What are you talking about?" the gray-headed policeman said to a reporter who wanted to know if he didn't think the exposure of Charles Ponzi of the Penitentiary St. Vincent de Paul and the Federal Prison at Atlanta would not put the skids under the g. y. g. game.

"Where do you get that stuff?" persisted the ancient copper, "didn't the Old Colony Exchange gang appear on the scene with their 2 per cents and a nimble little pea just when the Ponzi inquiry was getting into its stride?

The dear old public was wise by that time, you would think. Didn't everybody wake the Old Colony Exchange bunch to scorn? Didn't everybody say Nay! nay!

NEW "PONZIS" WILL ARISE.

"For a few months to come the get-rich-quick boy in New England will lay as low as Saratoga gambling after a sensational "raid." But the excitement will die down eventually and by the time the children of Ponzi's friends have got $385 apiece there'll be a new Jernegan, or a new Borges, or a modern C. F. King operating in dear old Boston and the line will form on the left. Pianodea's crowds"

PREDICT JUMP IN WAR BONDS

Government Has Already Retired One-twentieth of the Entire Issue

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The United States government has already retired one-twelfth of the entire war bond issue, Treasury Department officials announced today.

Liberty bond holders were reassured that they possess the "safest investment on earth," in spite of low market conditions.

The treasury has purchased and retired a total of $1,058,900,000 of Liberty and Victory bonds. The total amount of all issues, including the four Liberty and five Victory bonds, was $20,622,000,000. There now is outstanding in Liberty and Victory bonds, as part of the public debt of the United States, a total of $19,-572,616,000.

On the basis of present quotations it was freely admitted that of the total Liberty and Victory bonds now outstanding, there had been a depreciation of approximately $1,500,-000,000. Some officials believed the drop below par might even exceed that figure. But this does not disturb the firm belief of the treasury that all holders, who retain their bonds will see them again rise steadily in value.

Treasury officials were informed that the bulk of the bonds of various issues dumped upon the market by holders have quickly been bought up by men of wealth or corporations.

The secret service staff has been instructed to continue the government's war on illegitimate and dishonest traffickers in Liberty bonds. The treasury warns the public to deal with reliable banks and trust companies, if necessity induces them to sell their bonds.

'PARSONS' LUCK' GETS SETBACK

Skipper Who "Gets the Fish" Is Stranded With Ship in the Harbor

"Parsons' Luck" had a setback today when the fishing schooner Killarney, commanded by Captain Ernest Parsons, and bearing twenty-three men and 60,000 pounds of fish, was stranded for twelve hours on Billing Rock in the main ship channel near Boston Light.

Two Boston Harbor towboats stood by waiting for high tide, when the vessel is expected to float off.

Captain Parsons, a veteran in the New England fishing industry, enjoys the sobriquet of the champion fish getter. Among fishermen his good luck is proverbial, and he always has plenty of applicants for his cruises. The lack of mishaps on his voyages and the size of his catches have long been a popular topic of conversation along the waterfront.

So the stranding of a schooner under his command caused no little comment in that section of the city today. However, the captain's "luck" remained with him to the extent that the ship's timbers were unimpaired and no leaks developed. A heavy fog was blamed for the accident.

The Killarney is a member of the Gorton-Pew Company's fleet. It is of the auxiliary, two-masted type and started on this expedition August 9.

$200,000 IN BONDS STOLEN FROM MAILS

New York, Aug. 18.—Bonds valued at $200,000, belonging to Webber & Co., brokers, were stolen from the mails while en route from their Milwaukee office, it became known here. The firm believes that the theft was committed while the parcel containing the securities was in transit through Chicago.

When Briton Sees New England's Type He May Revise His Notions

O. H. Hoppe of England has started something.

It is up to Boston's bevy of beautiful women to finish it.

Mr. Hoppe arrived in New York with photographs of the beautiful English women under his arm. He says that America cannot produce such fairies.

Before he is here long, Boston girls say, he will learn that the New World is chock full of pretty girls. They invite him to come to Boston if he can't find enough beauties in New York. Here he will find every type, and here he will find, they say, the prettiest girl in the world.

Mr. Hoppe says the English type holds the world's title for pulchritude. Is he speaking the truth?

The American believes that Greater Boston has types of feminine beauty which are equal if not superior to those of England or any other country, and will publish the photographs of young women to prove it if they or their friends will send them in.

Howard Chandler Christy, artist and judge of beauty, says Mr. Hoppe is "all wrong." Discussing the controversy in his New York studio, Mr. Christy said:

"I saw Mr. Hoppe's selections of what he considers the five most beautiful women in the world. I saw them in the Boston American.

"Mr. Hoppe can't get away with that of course. His English beauties are extraordinary types to be sure, but we can match every one and go on one better.

"Our society women are matchless, our theatrical beauties are the wonder of the world, and you can find marvels of beauty among our telephone operators, shop girls.

"The best looking women in the world are the American women. I know because I draw pictures of them, and I am on the watch always for beauty of every type. If English girls were the most beautiful I would have them for my models. You can rest assured of that. I want my pictures to be beautiful, and to make them so I must have the most attractive models obtainable. Those who come to me are exquisite in their loveliness. That is true, not merely of the models who are kind enough to allow me to transfer their charms to bristol board or canvas, but of our society women.

CHARMING AND BRILLIANT.

"There is something about American women that you cannot find in women of other nationalities. There is a certain charm about them; they are wide awake and their brilliance seems to add to their looks; they are independent."

Two men are in a serious condition at the Lynn Hospital from injuries received early today when they were pinned to the ground by a telephone pole, broken by the impact of an automobile.

They are, Harold Harding, No. 13 Deer Park, Lynn, and Thomas Addison, No. 789 Boston street, Lynn.

Both men were pinned to the sidewalk by the fallen pole and mesh of wires. They were rescued by other pedestrians.

The automobile was owned and operated by Alfred H. Jarvis of No. 14 Tower avenue, Lynn, who was driving in the direction of Boston. It was believed that his automobile skidded on the wet rails of the street railway line, thus causing it to swerve into the telephone pole before he could regain control.

'REDS' USE U. S. MACHINE GUNS

Said to Have Been Captured From Kolchak; German Ammunition Also in Evidence

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A report has reached government officials that the Russian Reds, in their advance on Warsaw, are using ammunition made in Germany and machine guns made in the United States. The report is being investigated.

The American rapid fire guns, described as of the 1918 model, are presumed to have been part of the equipment of Admiral Kolchac whose forces were scattered by the Reds.

Both shells and rifle cartridges, according to the information, have found their way out of Germany and into Bolshevik hands. It was stated the rifle ammunition was so bright and shiny as though just turned out of a factory. This had been found upon Red prisoners and elsewhere in larger quantities.

High explosives used by the Bolshevik the authority stated, are poor. The shrapnel, however, in the sector under observation, was not only sure fire, but accurately timed. This shrapnel, it was charged, was made in Germany.

Red troops are miserably clad, it was said, but apparently well disciplined. The instructions posted in Russian factories regarding interference, particularly in striking, are out of all proportion to the offenses in the tragedy of Poland have just reached Washington. The dispatches from the Front say the outnumbered by the Reds are ...ply in men of guns, ammunition and other munitions.

"It's a queer, one fighting armed with bows and arrows," declared Major Boone, a member of Fremont, Ohio, formerly of the Minnesota State board of health, just back from Russia, and Poland where he was deputy commissioner for the American Red Cross. "The Americans are doing brilliantly, particularly the aviators who were first to pick up the Russian cavalry and report it to the Poles."

North Andover, Aug. 18.—Property holders of this town were shocked by the announcement of the board of assessors that the tax rate would jump $12 this year. The rate will be $29 per thousand, the highest ever passed here. The 1918 rate of $17 was especially low, but the exceptionally heavy appropriations at the town meeting were said to have caused the boost. GERMANS GREET RED ARMIES

Fling Out Red, White and Black Flags and Fraternize With Soviet Troops

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The Bolshevist forces now on the border of Germany and in the Polish corridor, which formerly was German territory are not plundering, murdering or outraging.

The Poles offer very little resistance in the actual fighting.

These are the two dominant notes in the dispatches of the German correspondents who are watching the fighting, in some instances, at ranges of less than 1,000 yards.

"DELIVERERS OF GERMANS."

One correspondent who has been in contact with the Red army for several days said the soldiers wear a mixture of rough uniforms or no uniforms at all but that they were very rigidly disciplined.

He said that the attitude of the soldiers toward the population in the territory occupied was beyond criticism. The soldiers termed themselves "deliverers of the Germans" and are being hailed as such by the population.

In describing the occupation of Soldau by a portion of the twelfth Russian division after marching and fighting for 18 hours, the correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung wrote:

WELCOME SOVIET TROOPS.

"The soldiers were received with enthusiasm and with the breaking out of red, white and blue flags. The Poles, including the Polish Mayor, had fled. A German, acting as Mayor, received the Russian commander who, with upraised hand, pledged: 'We will not again leave this German territory until it has been given back to Germany.' Commander Panob has now posted placards declaring robbery, looting and the outraging of women to be punishable by death to every soldier against whom a written complaint is lodged and verified. Some of the cavalry that is in the city had ridden more than 100 miles."

The correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, also writing from Soldau, said: "One may praise it or criticise it, the fact remains that the people here regard the Russians as their deliverers and say that conditions worse than those under the Poles could not possibly be."

MURPHY SAYS HE HAD NEGRO PAL

Convict Corroborates Carter's Confession in A. & P. Store Murders

Jesse Murphy, the convict, has stated that his accomplice in the murder of Edward P. Foley, Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store manager, in 1919, was a negro, according to Lewis H. Sullivan, a member of the Governor's Council.

Sullivan made public through the Boston American today a conversation which he had with Murphy in the Philadelphia prison on July 14. Accompanying him was David Mc-Donald of Bowdoin street, Dorchester.

Sullivan said he made the trip to Philadelphia for the purpose of having information available for the Governor's Council in the event of applications for pardons for Charles Rollins, now serving a sentence of life imprisonment for the Foley murder, and his brother, George Rollins, who was convicted of murdering Ordway R. Hall, another store manager of the tea company. Murphy, in a confession obtained by the Boston American, declared that the Rollins boys were innocent and that he and an accomplice committed the murders.

Murphy was at first hesitant to reveal the identity of his companion, Sullivan said, but finally admitted that the man was colored. He said that the negro's name was "Sam Cutter."

Friends of the Rollins boys asserted that Murphy's admission to Sullivan helped to corroborate the confession of one Stephen N. Carter, colored, made at St. Clairsville, Ohio, that he assisted Murphy in carrying out the Foley murder. The difference in name, they contended, might have been due to an alias used by the negro.

Other inmates and attendants at the prison do not believe Murphy insane, Sullivan declared. Murphy, during the conversation, the councillor said, expressed a fear that dictaphones had been placed about his cell and that friends of the Rollins brothers were endeavoring to "frame" him.

JILTS GIRL HE MET IN FRANCE

Supposed Fiancee Crosses Sea to Find War Veteran Married to Another

New York, Aug. 18.—How a dream of becoming the wife of a gallant soldier of the Pershing line was shattered when Marcelle Viacara, seventeen, arrived in America from France and learned that her supposed fiance had married another woman, was revealed by officials at Ellis Island.

Relatives of the man in the case are represented to be so aggrieved that they have offered the French girl a home with them.

Instead of meeting her fiance, as she had anticipated, she was given a letter which stated that Ivan W. Fisk, the man she declared she met in an army camp two years ago near Paris and promised to wed, had married a widow in Pittsburgh. Mlle. Viacara had brought her mother, Mme Jeanne Viacara, and two younger brothers, Gaston and Paul, to America.

The mother had sold her home in the outskirts of Paris and had taken her lifelong savings, amounting to 6,500 francs, to defray expenses of the voyage and to insure her daughter's happiness. Of this she lent a soldier 2,000 francs on the steamship Rochambeau. The soldier, according to Ellis Island authorities, had no money with which to pay his way to America with his French bride.

Through Miss Cecilia Razovsky, executive secretary of the department of immigrant aid of the Council of Jewish Women, Mlle. Viacara has become governess in the home of a wealthy Washington man of French descent.

SINN FEIN WANTS OPEN BATTLE

Situation Critical and British May Be Forced to Disarm More Than 20,000

By International News Service.

Dublin, Aug. 18.—Twenty thousand well-armed and restless Sinn Fein volunteers in County Cork have been left without a commander by the arrest of Lord Mayor McSweeney and ten Sinn Fein associates in the city of Cork.

The fact that the Cork volunteers —mostly young men—have been deprived of responsible leadership, and the increasing blockade of South Ireland against Ulster, were regarded today as two of the most critical factors in the Irish situation.

Many of the Cork volunteers are said to be clamoring for a "campaign in the field" against the British soldiers, and a movement to disarm them may be started by the British military authorities to prevent serious trouble.

The Belfast press is belittling the blockade of South Ireland, but the effect is being seen. The biggest soap factory in Belfast now works only three days a week. The biggest bakery in the city has reduced its working force nearly one-third. Wholesale dry goods firms at Belfast admit a falling off in orders.

Sinn Fein leaders declare that they are "forcing England out of Ireland without actual civil war, and they can force Ulster into a United Ireland by similar methods."

POLICE FIRE AND SHOOT UP SECOND IRISH TOWN

Dublin, Aug. 18.—In retaliation for the shooting of Inspector Wilson of the Royal Irish Constabulary, the constabulary shot up the town of Templemore, set fire to the town hall and to shops, and mistreated civilians.

Inspector Wilson was killed in Templemore Monday. His assailants escaped.

TO RELEASE ROME ON HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Philip Rome of Worcester, who has been detained at Fort Banks since last May on a charge of wartime desertion, will be released on $1,000 bail, having been found entitled to his liberty by Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the Federal Court who issued a writ of habeas corpus applied for by A. K. Cohen in behalf of Rome. Judge Morton said, "I find there is serious doubt that the man ever was legally inducted into the military service and therefore the writ may issue. A final decision on the case, however, is reserved." Rome is the son of a wealthy Worcester business man.

PHIAL MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Contained Preparation to Purify Water; Not to Destroy Nor Degrade Mankind

New York, Aug. 18.—The mystery surrounding thousands of strange phials, filled with white powder and hermetically sealed, washed up along the New Jersey and Long Island coast, has been partially solved.

The phials contain neither explosive nor poison, neither a habit-forming drug, nor a drug of rare curative powers. Chemists say they contain calcium hydrochlorite, a preparation used during the war to purify water.

The unsolved part of the riddle is how the phials happen to be washed in two years after the end of the war. The most logical theory is that the sealed bottles evidently were part of cargo, torpedoed near Europe, which has been carried westward.

At first lurid spy stories were wrapped about the mysterious phials, which exploded like miniature bombs when they were buried against a rock. Then it was suggested that perhaps the white substance was a potent drug lost from a wrecked smuggling ship.

Hundreds of similar possibilities were put forth until scientists settled the speculation and declared the mysterious white substance was a preparation to protect man and not to kill him.

ACTION TODAY ON SUFFRAGE

Bitter Discussion and Adjournment Delays Vote in Tennessee House

Nashville, Aug. 18.—Definite action by the special session of the Tennessee Legislature on the Federal woman suffrage amendment comes today.

The motion to adjourn was made by Speaker Walker, who led the fight against ratification, and it carried 52 to 44.

The vote to adjourn which held up action until today came after three hours and forty-five minutes of bitter debate, in which the charge was freely made that the "interests" were at work to block ratification. A previous test vote gave suffragists 51 to their opponents' 45.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 18.—Hope of ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment by the special session of the North Carolina Legislature was killed when the Senate by a vote of 25 to 22 adopted the anti-suffrage substitute for the ratification resolution and postponed action until the regular session next January.

The only way the matter can again come before the Senate is by a two-thirds vote to reconsider and the possibility of getting that number is practically beyond hope.

The substitute provides that since present legislators were not elected when suffrage was an issue and the voters had no opportunity to express their opinion on the question, it is the part of wisdom to wait until the regular session in January for final action.

BABY DESERTED; SEEK 'FINDER'

Hunt Man Turned Little Girl Over to Police Gave False Watertown Address

Police are scouring the city in an endeavor to locate George Chester who gave an address of No. 111 Madison street, Watertown, which proved to be false. They are also trying to find the parents of a pretty blonde, blue-eyed, two-year-old baby girl now at the Charles Street Home. The little tot was sent there by Captain McConnell of Station 1 when no one claimed her. She may soon be turned over to the State Board of Charity.

The mysterious Chester walked into the Hanover Street Station to inform Sergeant James Hoy that he found the child alone on Boston Common. He said officials at the Charles Street Home advised him to turn the child over to the police. The child was accepted and notice sent out to all station houses. When no claimant appeared the police were ordered to find Madison street, Watertown, and George Chester. They found neither. Believing it to be a clever scheme of abandonment the police are making investigation along these lines. The little girl is dressed in all white, including a cape of the same color.

BAN ON CLUBS AT NANTASKET

Police Act as Result of Complaints Against Noisy Gatherings in Cottages

Following complaints of many Summer residents at Nantasket Beach that a number of the so-called "club cottages" have become disturbing elements to the peace of the community Chief Frank M. Reynolds of the Hull police has served notice on the owners of such cottages asking them to order their tenants to vacate.

Nightly revels and noisy gatherings which do not disperse until the small hours of the morning are the chief cause of the complaints, the Bay street section, where several so-called "clubs" hold forth, being especially under the ban.

Summer folk have complained that their sleep is often disturbed as late as three o'clock in the morning by the playing of a piano or songs sung in loud voices.

Midnight dances and entertainments are also a source of worry to the older residents. In many cases girls' and men's clubs have cottages side by side and hold entertainments on alternate evenings.

Unless there is a decided change for the better, says Chief Reynolds, he intends to take steps to bar clubs of a like nature from obtaining cottages in the future.

COX ARRAIGNS HARDING

Declares He Is Champion of Opposition to Progressivism in Nation

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 18.—Senator Warren G. Harding has led the reactionary element in Ohio since 1912 and now is the champion of the opposition to progressivism in the nation, Governor James M. Cox charged in a militant speech before the Democratic State convention here.

The Democratic Presidential nominee pictured himself as the leader of those who were pitted in a victorious contest against the forces headed by his Republican adversary in the State and declared the lineup is the same in the present campaign.

"Ohio has been a great battleground for progressive government," said Governor Cox. "The contest has created the definite alignment of political parties. It has revealed the mental attitude of men who were a part of events. It has in considerable degree made the base upon which the presidential contest is being fought this year, for the reason that the issue now, as in the past, is between progress and reaction."

Well, we sell everything a man wants in the way of wearables. We propose to sell more and more of these things by putting more and more HOVEY VALUE into them, more and more printer's ink back of them.

CROSSES CONTINENT IN SIX DAYS IN TEMPLAR CAR

F. J. Caldwell, the local Templar distributor, recently received a telegram from Harry W. Anderson, general sales manager of the Templar Motor Car Company of Cleveland, announcing that "Cannonball" Baker had completed a most sensational run from New York City to Los Angeles in less than seven days, or to be exact, 6 days, 17 hours, 33 minutes and 14 seconds.

"This was a most wonderful run," said Mr. Caldwell, "when you consider the roads over which the car traveled and the fact that Baker drove all the way, sleeping only an average of four hours in every twenty-four. We have always been sold on the high-class, light-weight car exemplified in the Templar, and this performance again places the car in an enviable position.

18 HOURS OFF RECORD.

"The news conveyed in that telegram certainly filled us all with pardonable pride. Baker knocked off eighteen hours from his former record. A later communication from the factory gave us the details of the run."

New York to Los Angeles in less than seven days! From coast to coast through mud, fog and cloudburst, over mountain defiles and across desert roads, heavy with sand, in less than a week! Nearly a full day clipped from a record of three years' standing and every known feat of long distance driving eclipsed in one gruelling, heart-breaking dash! That, in brief, is the story of the record completed recently by a Templar motor car and "Cannonball" Baker, holder of the previous record.

"Cannonball" Baker, who holds more automobile and motorcycle records than any other driver, startled the automobile world six weeks ago when he announced he would make a transcontinental dash from New York to Los Angeles, in an effort to lower his own record of seven and one-half days, established several years ago.

AIDES RECRUITING.

Additional color was given the announcement when United States Army Headquarters announced that the race against time would be linked up with a general recruiting campaign to interest young men in the automotive schools of the army.

Wednesday, July 28th, Baker announced his readiness to start. Impressive farewell ceremonies conducted by army officers were arranged at once. The car was christened "The Army Recruiter."

At 8:42 that evening Colonel W. B. Atkinson, recruiting officer in charge of the New York district, handed Baker a dispatch for Colonel William A. Shunk, in charge of the Los Angeles district. With the command "Go," Baker and the Templar were off in an effort to smash the standing record by at least one day.

While originally a recruiting venture, Baker's effort to lower his own record quickly assumed the nature of a national sporting event.

The first night he crossed the two eastern mountain ranges, passing through 107 miles of fog and covering 52 miles in detours. Nineteen hours, 55 minutes after leaving New York, Baker arrived in Indianapolis, Ind., averaging better than 41 miles per hour from New York. Here he made his first stop for food and rest.

CROSSED PRAIRIE.

From Indianapolis Baker crossed the broad stretches of Illinois and Kansas prairie. He touched a corner of Missouri and then climbed into the picturesque regions of Colorado.

Eighty-three miles east of La Junta, Baker ran into a cloudburst. On into La Junta and for ninety-three miles west he combatted cloudbursts and axle-deep adobe mud.

From Colorado he dropped into New Mexico, flashed across the deserts of Arizona, broke through the mountain passes around San Bernardino and quickly consumed the final lap into Los Angeles.

Baker relied upon Templar and Firestone Cord tires for his transcontinental run because six weeks before, with the same combination, he knocked six hours, ten minutes off the New York-Chicago record, negotiating the distance in 26 hours, 50 minutes.

"I was confident that Templar and Baker could break the 7½-day record under nominal conditions," said Harry W. Anderson, general sales manager of the Templar Motors Company, who had direct charge of the run for the motor car company. "But it is a revelation how any car could withstand such terrific punishment and yet set such a sweeping time record."

GIRL BATHER DIES AT WOOD ISLAND

While walking into the water at the Wood Island Park bathing beach Alice Mackey, fifteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Bridget Mackey of No. 45 Maverick street, East Boston, was stricken, probably with heart failure, and died a few minutes later while on her way to the Relief Station.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

I am having some trouble with my cooling system. I have a Briscoe 1918 model and every time I go out I have to fill up the radiator. Sometimes the engine gets so hot that it will not run in gear. At the end of sixty miles driving the water is all gone. Now I have looked the radiator over very carefully and can find no leaks anywhere. Both hose connections are tight. I have put a hose in the top of the radiator and opened the bottom pet cock and the water flowed through freely. Where does the water go to? If you can suggest what my trouble is I will be very much obliged to you. A. G. R., Brockton, Mass.

Several things might be the matter with your car. It is probably full of carbon which would make it over heat quickly. Your fan may not be working properly. You may have too rich a mixture and your engine may be timed too late. Also the valve tappets may need adjusting. If the tappets are so worn that the valves open too late this would make your engine over heat. Would suggest that you check up on these points or better still have you car looked over at your Briscoe Agency. It would be worth while to do this.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

Would you please answer in your column Wednesday the following question: I am having trouble with the storage battery on Dodge car. It does not seem to charge more [illegible] of distilled water in the battery and the generator works well. I noticed the connections on the terminals were quite badly corroded. Is this the trouble? How can I remedy same or repair these terminals? Thanking you for the answer, I remain, H. L. S., Woods Hole, Mass.

Since the ammeter reads three or four amperes your trouble must be with your generator to begin with. You battery may need attention and your terminals certainly should be cleaned, but first of all you must fix your generator so it will charge properly. It probably needs new brushes or the old ones adjusted. These should be put on by an expert.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

I have a 1916 model 75B Overland touring car and am having trouble with my steering gear. It is pretty near impossible to keep it on a straight course. I have had new parts put in and had it in several garages but it always loosens up very quickly. Could you advise me how to adjust the gear or if I can have another style steering gear put in. B. G. C., Lynnfield Centre, Mass.

The only way you can overcome your difficulty is to adjust the eccentric or to change the position of the square on your steering arm. You could have a model 90 front end put in. This might prove expensive, but would end your trouble.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

Would you be good enough to quote in your column the cost of running a Ford Touring car per mile? Also does the average you find differ from the cost of running said car for the first 10,000 miles? L. H., Boston, Mass.

It is impossible to tell you the average cost per mile of running any car, because it all varies with the driver, conditions of the road and the tire milage, etc.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

I have a 1916 four cylinder Oldsmobile and when I change my gear from first to second the car runs all right, but when I change to high and give the engine gas it begins to jump and jerk until I get going about fifteen miles an hour. Could you give me a remedy for that? Thanking you for your good information, I remain: R. S. B., Boston, Mass.

Your motor is running irregularly, which may be caused by poor valves, worn pistons, improper ignition or incorrect timing, which probably will have to be gone all over. You might grind your valves and check up the timing of your motor. If after grinding valves you have poor compression you will know you need new rings or pistons.

Dear Mr. Fixit:

I have a 1917 model T worm drive Ford. I cannot make more than six miles on a gallon of gasoline. I have had my carburetor adjusted but doesn't make any difference. Will you kindly tell me if you can what the trouble might be? Thanking you, I remain R. C., Windham Juncton, N. H.

Grind your valves and clean out the carbon from your motor and then try to readjust your carburetor. Also check up your ignition. If this does not do it you will probably have to buy a new carburetor as your float may be bad which would not allow you to get a good mixture.

KRAMMER WITH TOPNOTCHERS

Little Bantam Shows Worth in Quick Kayo of Paddy Owens

By JACK CONWAY.

New England's ambitious bantamweights today feel much like the American League pitchers do when Babe Ruth walks to the plate as a result of the bang-up showing Danny Krammer made in his bout with Paddy Owens of Cambridge at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building.

When Krammer left these parts a couple of years ago to win fame and fortune on the Pacific Coast, he was one of those ordinary preliminary fighters who was given a match when there was nobody else around.

Today Danny has class enough to make things interesting for any man of his pounds in this section of the country.

Paddy Owens wasn't very successful in his effort to prove that while the West End youth may be the bantamweight champion of the Pacific Coast he isn't a title contender in New England. It took Krammer just two rounds to convince the Cambridge miller that he had doped the battle from the wrong angle.

Owens Nearly Out in Opening Chapter

While the bout lasted, the fans witnessed plenty of action. Krammer started out for a kayo in the first frame. He counted frequently in the first part of the opening chapter and it looked as though he was going to win in a hurry. Then Owens got started and for a minute made Krammer look like a novice.

Although he was missing many blows, Krammer kept going forward. He finally scored with a left-hand smash to Owens' jaw. The latter hit the canvas and was virtually out. He managed to regain his feet only to be dropped again. Once more he got up and Krammer immediately sent him to the mat for the third time. The bell sounded as Owens resumed fighting.

Owens was in poor shape when he left his corner in the second round. Krammer did not waste any time and dropped his opponent for the fatal count with a left-hand smash to the body.

Siegal Had No Easy Task to Win

In the other feature bout Referee Jerry Moore gave Nate Siegal of Beachmont the award over Paddy Flynn, Everett welterweight, after twelve thrilling rounds of battling. Siegal fought most of the distance with a bad cut over his right eye. This greatly handicapped his work.

Siegal had the best of the going in the first two rounds and it looked as though he was going to win handily. In the third session Flynn scored with a terrific right-hand smash which opened a cut over Siegal's right eye.

From that point on Flynn made things mighty interesting for his rival. Many of the fans were of the opinion that Flynn could have been given a draw.

Harry Martin of Providence bested Mack Murphy of Atlantic in eight rounds, while Billy Woods of Manchester, N. H., gained the honors over Danny Ridge of New York in eight frames.

France Permits More Money for Poker

Paris, Aug. 18.—Poker games on the high seas may now be expected to pick up.

Owing to thousands of complaints by Americans that the sum allowed them to cross the ocean back to America was not sufficient for their poker losses and bar bills, the French Minister of Finances has announced that henceforth the sum of five thousand francs may be exported by each person leaving France.

Hitherto the sum has been one thousand francs, or about $80 in American money at the exchange rate. Passengers said this was not enough to "ante in."

Golfing News and Notes

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Crack amateur golfers will have their first opportunity to shoot the championship Kernwood Country Club course at Salem Friday and Saturday, August 27 and 28. The field will be a strong one, with all of the best Massachusetts talent entered and some good ones from outside.

Jesse Koshland, No. 501 Summer street, is in charge of the entries and is anxious to get them in as soon as possible, as he wishes to announce the draw at an early date. While a large number of invitations have been sent out, the tournament is open to all golfers who are rated at five shots or better by their State associations.

The competitive record for Kernwood is 72 and is held by Lou Tellier.

Members of the Worcester Country Club are all ready to entertain a large number of Massachusetts golfers this week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the Worcester folks will hold their annual three-day open tournament. This event is always one of the best for it draws from a larger territory than most of the open tournaments. It draws from Rhode Island, Western Massachusetts and Boston, as well as from all the Worcester Clubs.

Any golfer who can possibly get to Worcester Thursday for the qualifying round should do so, even if unable to play through, for there is no finer course in New England than at Worcester. It is up to championship requirements and furnishes a difficult and interesting test of golf. The entertainment committee will reward all golfers with something worth while.

Notices have been sent to club secretaries of the first annual open tournament on September 4 of the Scituate Country Club, Rivermoor, Scituate Harbor, Mass. One gross prize and two net prizes and a special prize for each contestant whose gross is lower than 76, the course record, completes an attractive prize list. George Bowden made the record. As it is only a little more than an hour's run to Scituate, and as club autos will meet all trains, there should be a good turnout.

The South Shore amateur golf championship will start Thursday on the links of the Plymouth Country Club. There will be a qualifying round of 18 holes with the sixteen lowest gross scorers continuing in the match play rounds. Members of these clubs are eligible: Hatherly, Crow Point, Cohasset, Scituate, Duxbury and Plymouth.

The Bass Rocks Golf Club, Gloucester, Mass., will have an open tournament Saturday, August 21, for members of clubs affiliated with the M. G. A. It will be a handicap stroke competition for eighteen holes. The train service to Gloucester is good and taxicabs will meet all trains. Bass Rocks is eighteen holes.

GOLDEN WHEEL REVENGE RACE

Four-Cornered Fifty-Mile Motor Pace Feature at Revere Tonight

George Wiley, Clarence Carman and George Chapman will have a chance to get back at Vincent Madonna, the Golden Wheel champion, tonight when the big four line up in a fifty-mile contest, in what is known as the Golden Wheel Revenue race.

The contest will be run under the same conditions that the big race was staged, and, with the exception of Chapman, who takes the place of Didier, the field is the same.

The bike riders are much like the boxers, and after each race the beaten members always have some alibi. This was the case last week, and tonight's contest is the result.

It will be a harder race than the first one on Madonna, as he will have the field lined up against him, and it will be a case of beat the champion, rather than beat each other.

Manager Butler has arranged a strong card of amateur and professional events to precede the motor-paced race.

18 hours, 18 minutes and 46 seconds cut from a three-year record of 7 days, 11 hours, 52 minutes! And under road conditions that make the feat seem humanly impossible!

Wednesday, August 4, "Cannon Ball" Baker, at the wheel of a Templar, pulled into Los Angeles, victor in a transcontinental battle against unprecedented and almost overwhelming road and weather conditions, in co-operation and under official timing of the U. S. Army Recruiting Service.

Through hundreds of miles of cloud-burst—washed out roads—axle-deep adobe mud—steep mountain grades that would turn back an ordinary car—desert roads heavy with sand—dense mountain fogs—and Templar never faltered.

Nearly 3500 miles of heartless road punishment and pitiless driving marks a new achievement in motor car stamina and endurance.

It is the crowning triumph in the career of America's Superfine Small Car—a career already crowded with victories in motor car achievement.

NEW BASEBALL WAR FEARED IF PITCHER MAYS IS DISCIPLINED

YANKEES WILL BACK PITCHER

Four American League Clubs Go on Record as Demanding Action

league clubs in declaring for the banishment of Mays from organized baseball, forecast of such conflict is seen.

Mays has no intention of quitting baseball and said today:

"My grief over the accident is great but it is something that could not be helped. I intend to remain in baseball and show the fans that things which have been said of me are either malicious or ill-advised."

There is no question but that the New York club will back Mays to the limit, for Colonels Rupert and Huston, and Miller Huggins, Yankee manager, have declared their conviction that the killing was accidental.

It is equally certain, from reports from Boston and Washington, that the Red Sox, the Detroit club, and the Washington and St. Louis players will make a firm demand for the permanent removal of Mays from big league baseball.

Speaker Silent on Clubs' Report

What action the league officials would take has not been ascertained, Ban Johnson, in Chicago, is quoted as saying:

"I will make no statement on the future status of Mays until I have more complete and definite reports."

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland club, which must suffer heavily through the loss of its star shortstop, likewise would make no definite statement regarding the action the Cleveland club might take.

"I can't say anything," he said, "until I get to Cleveland. It's not a matter of baseball to me. It's a personal matter—a matter of friendship.

"I am worn out by the responsibility and work which this tragedy has imposed upon me. At present all I can say is that I have never declared Monday's occurrence intentional or unintentional."

Sox and Tigers to Put Ban on Mays

By NICK FLATLEY.

The unfortunate killing of brilliant Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, by a pitched ball, has started a movement that seems destined to change Carl Mays out of baseball and to cause some sort of drastic legislation that will prevent pitchers from "dusting off" batters, as Ray Chapman's fatal ball on the inside of the plate intended to score away the good hitter.

Though it is generally admitted that no pitcher would deliberately try to hit a batter in the head with sufficient force to kill him, there are plenty of ball players in the American League who have been charging Mays with throwing the "bean" ball for years. It may be remembered that Cobb and Mays nearly came to blows here several years ago, when a couple of fast ones had breezed past the Georgian's head.

Players on both the Red Sox team and the Tigers, who are playing here, do not hesitate to state that a general strike may be in order if the Yankees attempt to use Mays again as a pitcher.

Umpires Score Mays for Attack on Connolly

The umpires working here at present, Billy Evans and Bill Dinneen, bitterly resented the statement purported to have been made by Mays, claiming that a roughened ball caused the accident, and that he had requested Umpire Connolly to remove the ball from the game, and had been refused.

The two arbitrators gave out the following statement:

"No pitcher in the American League resorted to trickery more than Carl Mays in attempts to roughen a ball in order to get a break which would make it more difficult to hit. Until the new pitching rules came into force, which eliminated roughing the ball by putting a severe penalty on a pitcher, Mays constantly used to 'file' the ball across the pitching rubber in order to get the rough surface. Hundreds of balls were thrown out every year because of this act.

"Mays' statement that Umpire Thomas Connolly was to blame because he permitted a rough ball to go pitch, that comes with poor grace from a pitcher noted for his waterproof, emery motion, to an effort to cover the Chapman death.

"A short time ago American League club owners complained to President Johnson of the American League about the umpires throwing too many balls out of the game. President Johnson sent out a bulletin to keep the balls in the game as much as possible, except those which were dangerous."

Rule Against "Beaning" Not Easy to Enforce

The whole situation is the worst black eye that the professional game has received in modern times, and is particularly unfortunate coming at the height of a season that surpassed all others in general interest. Although the death was accidental, it shows up an element of danger that baseball's enemies will harp on quickly enough.

For the last few years there has been a great tendency in baseball to chase good hitters away from the plate. Pitchers have been shooting them close, not in one team or league, but on all sides. It's part of a pitcher's job, almost, to be able to "dust off" a dangerous batter now and then.

Laws have been laid down against the method, but it's utterly impossible to foretell the "beaning," as the practice is known. Managers, as well as pitchers, are familiar with the habit, which developed generally as the game became scientific and highly specialized.

Cobb Will Discuss "Bean Ball" Tactics Later

After the funeral of Ray Chapman has been held Ty Cobb will have "a few things to say" regarding the pitching tactics" of Carl Mays.

"I am too upset over the death of Chapman to say anything now," Cobb said.

Cobb, however, added that he had had his own experiences with Mays' "bean ball," and that he would be willing to give some of his opinions about the Yankees' submarine pitcher when he does talk.

Authorities May Act on Chapman's Death

New York, Aug. 18.—With a movement on foot among the players of the American League to drive Carl Mays out of the game for good, indications are that more serious action may be demanded of the authorities as a result of the death of Ray Chapman.

Members of the Cleveland team are licensed over independent efforts in local sporting circles to whitewash Mays. Without openly charging the New York pitcher with intentionally striking Chapman in the head, they plainly made it known an investigation was necessary, and in one quarter, at least, it is reported one player could tell of Mays no longer than a week ago threatening to "get" the Cleveland shortstop.

Clark Griffith Favors Banishment of Mays

Washington, Aug. 18.—Any movement to have Carl Mays put out of the game for all time will have the support of Clark Griffith, president and manager of the Washington Baseball Club.

Griffith said that at a game in Washington, some years ago, Mays threatened to "bean" George McBride, the Senators' shortstop.

"He tried his best to do it," Griffith added. "But McBride was alert and managed to catch the ball on his elbow."

"I cannot say that Mays intentionally 'beaned' Chapman, but I believe that he has intentionally 'beaned' other players, and has bragged about it afterward."

CARL MAYS AND THE "BEAN BALL"

Baseball today mourns the untimely death of Ray Chapman, the popular shortstop of the Cleveland Indians.

Carl Mays and the bean ball are condemned on all sides, but this most dangerous practice—sad to say—is part and parcel of modern baseball.

Several big league pitchers are known as bean-ball hurlers, which they resort to when some well known hard hitter is at bat. The ball is used for a scare, and no injury is intended.

Carl Mays has been one of the chief offenders in this respect.

Ball players and fans alike have repeatedly hurled threats at him for his persistent use of the so-called "beaner," and several near fights on the field have resulted.

Mays may be driven from baseball but it remains for the baseball commission, the fans and the players themselves to exile all offenders from the game.

SOX AND TIGERS IN SINGLE GAME

Double-Header Split, Natives Winning First Game and Hostiles the Second

No pennants of glory are at stake, but the battling of the Red Sox and the Tigers at the Fenway continues to be interesting. The present invaders, having emerged somewhat from the slump that ruined them early in the season, figure just as strongly as the natives, and act that way, also. Neither team has the first old, but that's an old story thus far in the season.

There was a single game this P. M., with Hoyt ready to fling for the Sox, and Doc Ayers in line for the Detroiters. Young Master Hoyt hasn't clouded a complete game here since his release from the hospital, and the local throng was anxious to see him go the distance. The medical sharpshooter of Hughey's clan has tossed some mighty fine games this season, and when he gets all his stuff working is a tough bird to beat.

The Sox and the Tigers divided their double header, the initial game going the correct way, 4 to 3, the final the opposite, 3 to 1.

WORLD'S RECORD FOR THOMSON

Canadian Hurdler Wins 110-Metre Event at Olympics—More Stars Crippled

By "TED" MEREDITH.

American Quarter and Half-Mile Champion and Famous Olympic Winner.

Antwerp, Aug. 18.—Earl Thomson, Canada, set a new world's record here today for the 110-metre hurdles when he won the event in 14 4-5 seconds.

Harold Barron, Meadowbrook Club, Phila., finished second to the sensational Canadian in the 110 metre race. Fred S. Murray, N. Y. A. C. was third, Wilson, New Zealand, fourth, Walter Smith, Chicago A. A. fifth; Christiensson, Sweden, sixth.

F. Smithson, an American, held the former 110 metre record. He made the distance in 1908 at London in 15 seconds.

Thomson Well Known as Dartmouth Star

It had been expected that Thomson would lower the mark for the event for he recently clipped a fifth of a second off the worlds record for the 120-yard hurdles in the United States.

Thomson is a Canadian but is American trained, having done most of his athletic work at Dartmouth college.

Patrick J. Ryan of the Loughlin Lyceum, New York, won the 16-pound hammer throw with a toss of 53.43 metres. S. B. Bennett of the Chicago A. A. was second and Matt McGrath, New York A. C., finished fourth.

Frigerio of Italy won the 10,000-metre walk, with J. B. Pearman, New York Athletic club, in second place. Dunn of England was third, McMaster, South Africa, fourth; Williams, England, fifth, and T. A. Mc-Donald, St. Anselm A. A., New York, sixth.

Long List of Cripples On the American Team

The American hospital list has assumed startling size. Sol Butler, the star negro jumper, failed to qualify for his favorite event, the broad jump, and will not be in the finals.

John Ray, the Chicago flat-race runner, pulled a tendon in practice and may have difficulty when he starts a race.

William Plant was forced to withdraw from the walks when he strained a groin and now McGrath is out of the 56-pound weight event. It is believed.

America, her point score more than double that of her nearest competitor and with another world's record to her credit, "Ted" Meredith "cinched" the world at these Olympic games.

By her wins on the second day, and the placing of other sons where they can count, the United States ran her total score up to 63½. Finland is second with 34. The other contestants already are almost out of the running. England has only 9½ points; Sweden 13½, and France 11.

Landon of N. Y. A. C. Breaks Record

The record fell when Dick Landon of the New York A. C. took the finals in the high jump with the bar at 1.94 meters.

A. G. Hill, a British entrant, provided the big surprise of the day when he won the final of the 400-meter event, beating Earl Eby, who was second for America, and Rudd of England third. Rudd was the favorite to win the race. The time was 1:33 2-5.

America made her worst showing in the 5,000-meter run, when her team failed to secure a place. Joseph Guillemot, the French star, won the event, Hans Kolehmainen of Finland was second and Backman of Sweden third.

Ersgland Beats U. S. in Tug-of-War

England won the tug of war from America.

The semi-final in the 110-meter hurdles showed America ready to contest this event when Barron, Smithson and Murray all qualified. Yount failed to place. Barron and Earl Thomson, the Canadian sprinter, equaled the Olympic record of fifteen seconds for the event in their heats.

Plant, Maroney and Pearman qualified for America in the 10,000-meter walk.

Pat McDonald, the big New York copper, Mike Devereaux and Lee Bond of the Shreveport (Texas) League, club is announced by Manager Clark Griffith of the Senators.

WINS BOWL FOR THIRD TIME

National Tennis Champion Johnston Permanent Owner of Trophy by Beating Niles

William M. Johnston, the American singles tennis champion, had all sorts of stuff on the ball Tuesday, and had no trouble in defeating Nat Niles 6-4, 6-0, 6-0 in the challenge round for the Longwood bowl. It was Johnston's third win in the event and the California star was handed the unique piece of silverware as the terms were that the player who won it three times could keep it.

The doubles championship produced no upsets and only one match went five sets. It required the limit of sets for Willis Davis and Roland Roberts to eliminate Watson Washburn and Dean Mathey 6-3, 10-12, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. J. D. E. Jones, partnered with his son, A. W. Jones, made a good showing against Wallace Johnson and S. W. Pearson, but lost. It is unusual for father and son to be able to make a stand in a national doubles tennis championship.

NEW BASEBALL WAR FEARED IF PITCHER MAYS IS DISCIPLINED

YANKEES WILL BACK PITCHER

Four American League Clubs Go on Record as Demanding Action

league clubs in declaring for the banishment of Mays from organized baseball, forecast of such conflict is seen.

Mays has no intention of quitting baseball and said today:

"My grief over the accident is great but it is something that could not be helped. I intend to remain in baseball and show the fans that things which have been said of me are either malicious or ill-advised."

There is no question but that the New York club will back Mays to the limit, for Colonels Ruppert and Huston, and Miller Huggins, Yankee manager, have declared their conviction that the killing was accidental.

It is equally certain, from reports from Boston and Washington, that the Red Sox, the Detroit club, and the Washington and St. Louis players will make a firm demand for the permanent removal of Mays from big league baseball.

Speaker Silent on Clubs' Report

What action the league officials would take has not been ascertained Ban Johnson, in Chicago, is quoted as saying:

"I will make no statement on the future status of Mays until I have more complete and definite reports."

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland club, which must go to pieces through the loss of its star shortstop, likewise would make no definite statement regarding the action the Cleveland club might take.

"I can't say anything," he said, "until I get to Cleveland. It's not a matter of baseball to me. It's a personal matter—a matter of friendship.

"I am sorry not for the Cleveland club, and work which this tragedy has imposed upon me. I am sorry for Mays. I can say is that I have never declared Monday's occurrence intentional or unintentional."

Sox and Tigers to Put Ban on Mays

By NICK FLATLEY.

The unfortunate killing of brilliant Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, by a pitched ball, has started a movement that seems destined to chase Carl Mays out of baseball and to cause some sort of drastic legislation that will prevent pitchers from "dusting off" batters as they have been doing the ball on the inside of the plate intended to take away the good hitters.

Though it is generally admitted that no pitcher would deliberately try to hit batter in the head with sufficient force to kill him, there are plenty of ball players on the American League who have been charging Mays with throwing the "bean" ball for years. It may be remembered that Cobb and Mays nearly came to blows here several years ago, when a couple of fast ones had breezed past the Georgian's head.

Players on both the Red Sox team and the Tigers, who are playing here, do not hesitate to state that a general strike may be the result if the Yankees attempt to use Mays again as a pitcher.

Umpires Score Mays for Attack on Connolly

The umpires working here at present, Billy Evans and Bill Dineen, bitterly resented the statement purported to have been made by Mays, claiming that a roughened ballcaused the accident, and that he had requested Umpire Connolly to remove the ball from the game, and had been refused.

The two arbitrators gave out the following statement:

"No pitcher in the American League resorted to trickery more than Carl Mays in attempts to roughen a ball in order to get a break which would make it more difficult to hit. Until the new pitching rules came into force, which eliminated roughing the ball by putting a severe penalty on a pitcher, Mays constantly used to 'doctor the ball across the pitching rubber in order to get the rough surface. Hundreds of balls were thrown out every year because of this act.

"Mays' statement that Umpire Thomas Connolly was to blame because he permitted a rough ball is an alibi, that comes with poor grace from a pitcher noted for his notoriously mean tactics, in an effort to cover the Chapman death.

"A short time ago American League club owners complained to President Johnson of the American League about the umpires throwing too many balls out of the game. President Johnson sent out a bulletin to keep the balls in the game as much as possible, except those which were dangerous."

Rule Against "Beaning" Not Easy to Enforce

The whole situation is the worst black eye that the professional game has received in modern times, and is particularly unfortunate coming at the height of a season that surpassed all others in general interest. Although the death was accidental, it shows up an element of danger that baseball's enemies will harp on quickly enough.

For the last few years there has been a great tendency in baseball to chase good hitters away from the plate. Pitchers have been shooting them close, not in one team or league, but on all sides. It's part of a pitcher's job, almost, to be able to "dust off" a dangerous batter now and then.

Laws have been laid down against the method, but it's utterly impossible to detect intentional "beaning," as the practice is known. Managers, as well as pitchers, are familiar with the knell, which developed generally as the game became scientific and highly specialized.

Cobb Will Discuss "Bean Ball" Tactics Later

After the funeral of Ray Chapman has been held Ty Cobb will have "a few things to say regarding the pitching tactics" of Carl Mays.

"I am too upset over the death of Chapman to say anything now," Cobb said.

Cobb, however, added that he had had his own experiences with Mays' "bean ball," and that he would be willing to give some of his opinions about the Yankees' submarine pitcher when he does talk.

Authorities May Act on Chapman's Death

New York, Aug. 18.—With a movement on foot among the players of the American League to drive Carl Mays out of the game for "good," indications are that more serious action may be demanded of the authorities as a result of the death of Ray Chapman.

Members of the Cleveland team are incensed over the efforts in local sporting circles to whitewash Mays. Without openly charging the New York pitcher with intentionally striking Chapman in the head, they plainly would like to see an investigation was necessary, and in one quarter, at least, it is reported one player could tell of Mays no longer than a week ago threatening to "get" the Cleveland shortstop.

Clark Griffith Favors Banishment of Mays

Washington, Aug. 18.—Any movement to have Carl Mays put out of the game for all time will have the support of Clark Griffith, president and manager of the Washington Baseball Club.

Griffith said that at a game in Washington, some years ago, Mays threatened to "bean" George McBride, the Senators' shortstop.

"He tried his best to do it," Griffith added. "But McBride was alert and managed to catch the ball on his shoe."

"I cannot say that Mays intentionally beaned Chapman, but I believe that he has intentionally beaned other players, and has bragged about it afterward."

The two arbitrators gave out the following statement:

"No pitcher in the American League resorted to trickery more than Carl Mays in attempts to roughen a ball in order to get a break which would make it more difficult to hit. Until the new pitching rules came into force, which eliminated roughing the ball by putting a severe penalty on a pitcher, Mays constantly used to 'doctor the ball across the pitching rubber in order to get the rough surface. Hundreds of balls were thrown out every year because of this act.

"Mays' statement that Umpire Thomas Connolly was to blame because he permitted a rough ball is an alibi, that comes with poor grace from a pitcher noted for his notoriously mean tactics, in an effort to cover the Chapman death.

CARL MAYS AND THE "BEAN BALL"

Baseball today mourns the untimely death of Ray Chapman, the popular shortstop of the Cleveland Indians.

Carl Mays and the bean ball are condemned on all sides, but this most dangerous practice—sad to say—is part and parcel of modern baseball.

Several big league pitchers are known as bean-ball hurlers, which they resort to when some well known hard hitter is at bat.

The ball is used for a scare, and no injury is intended.

Carl Mays has been one of the chief offenders in this respect.

Ball players and fans alike have repeatedly hurled threats at him for his persistent use of the so-called "beaner," and several near fights on the field have resulted.

Mays may be driven from baseball but it remains for the baseball commission, the fans and the players themselves to exile all offenders from the game.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid [illegible]; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

United States bonds are too low and should be bought for investment. Every one should own some.

Germany's Credit—is so low that Marks sell for one-tenth the normal pre-war price. German Municipal Bonds sell in about the same ratio to normal.

Gold Coin for Cuba

Gold coin to the amount of $100,000 was withdrawn from the New York Sub-Treasury yesterday for shipment to Cuba.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Aug. 18.—With the exception of November, which was unchanged, the cotton market opened rather firm and at a net advance of 15 to 29 points. The better tone was due partly to more optimistic news from Poland. Offerings were large, but there was a demand from Wall Street, local shorts and commission houses. At the end of twenty minutes the list was still firm, with prices 35 points over last night's close. Opening prices were: October 29.90, November 29.00, December 28.90, January 28.25, March 27.88, May 27.75, July 27.40.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Wheat opened 1½ lower. Oats were up ¼. Provisions were generally steady. Opening prices were: Wheat, December 2.30; corn, September 1.48¾ to 1.49, December 1.25 to 1.25½, May 1.21¾; oats, September 69¼ to 69⅝, December 69⅛ to 69¼, May 71¼; lard, September 18.70, October 19.12; ribs, September 15.30.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, Aug. 18.—The sub-treasury gained $210,000 from the banks on Tuesday, reducing the cash net loss since Friday to $1,131,000.

SUGAR ISSUES ARE WEAK

Price Movement Irregular All the Forenoon; Oils and Rails Are Firmest Groups

Although prices ruled higher at the opening the early rise was not long sustained. Within fifteen minutes liberal offerings of stocks halted the advance and caused a reversal in tendency and there was a brief downward movement before the market received fresh support. Before the end of an hour there was a rally and the list became irregular. In fact up to mid-morning the trend was erratic. In most instances fluctuations were small and the market was of fair breadth only. Sugars were active and weak also. New lows for the year were made by American Sugar, Beet Sugar and Punta Alegre. Atlantic Gulf was another issue to sell at its lowest figure for 1920 to date. Steels were inclined toward a lower level, oils showed strength on the whole, equipments were uncertain in their course, motors were steady and rails were quiet but firm. Trading was of moderate volume and lacking in feature. The uncertainty of the foreign situation had a corresponding effect upon speculators.

WAR NEWS MORE SATISFACTORY

War news was more satisfactory and curbed bear aggression to some extent. It was said, however, that the money situation was a more adverse influence than fighting around Warsaw. The advance of the call rate to 8 per cent. yesterday and evidence that banking interests were giving stocks less support contributed to depress sentiment further. It is far from cheerful in any quarter. The money situation is said to be a little more tense, although John J. Mitchell, a leading Chicago banker, expresses belief that the strain arising from crop moving has passed its peak. But no more ease is reported in any section and credit pressure is increasing in some districts. Large Federal expenditures next month will not tend toward relaxation. Nearly a billion dollars must be paid to railroads under the guarantees act and government deposits are now comparatively small.

WALL STREET LIQUIDATION.

But it is said, on the other hand, that liquidation in the Wall Street district has been carried to an unprecedented extent. One New York banker says regarding Wall Street loans:

"I should say that brokers' loans from New York banks today are close to $700,000,000 and, taking into account the loans from out-of-town institutions, Wall Street collateral loans do not exceed $1,100,000,000 in all."

Corporation Earnings

Rock Island's gross for the last week of July increased nearly $340,500, compared with the corresponding week of last year, and for the full month of July the gain was $953,000, or 9.7 per cent. over July, 1919. For the first seven months of 1920 gross showed an increase of nearly $14,995,000, or more than 24 per cent. compared with the corresponding period of last year.

For 1919 the Duluth, Missabe & Northern reports net corporate income after Federal taxes and charges $3,445,717, which is equal to $83.18 a share on $4,112,500 stock, against $3,473,435 or $84.43 a share in the preceding year.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's June gross increased $232,569, but it reported for the month a net deficit of $3,922,591 as compared with a surplus of $1,920,707 for the corresponding 1919 month. For six months its gross increased $9,781,572, but it reported a net deficit of $34,017,171 against a surplus of $5,868,296 for the first half of last year.

July sales by the J. C. Penney Co. increased $1,324,711 compared with the corresponding month in 1919, while for seven months the gain was $5,868,274.

For the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 next it is expected that the Cuban American Sugar Co. will show earnings of from $26,000,000 to $28,000,000, subject to deduction of interest, depreciation and taxes. It is estimated that taxes will be $10,000,000 to $11,000,000, leaving a balance of about $16,000,000 for interest, depreciation and dividends.

For the first half of this year the Associated Oil Co. reports surplus after all charges and Federal taxes of $3,635,442 or $9.14 a share on $39,752,800 capital stock, against $2,982,582 or $7.48 on $39,860,701 stock the like 1919 period.

Net profits for the fiscal year ended with June, 1920, reported by the Aetna Explosives Co. amounted to $1,510,930, which is equal to $2.77 a share on outstanding stock.

It is figured that Bethlehem Steel Corporation's earnings for the first half of this year were at the rate of from $25 to $30 a share on the common stock and Class B stock combined.

TWO CRUSHED BY WILD TRUCK ON SIDEWALK

Joseph Striker, twenty-one years old, and Gerald Brinkman, twenty-two years old, both living at the Hotel Savoy, Columbus avenue, suffered laceration of the scalp and bruises about the legs and body when an auto truck ran wild on Clarendon street, near Chandler, rolled upon the sidewalk, knocked them down and crashed into a lunch room window. Striker and Brinkman are at the City Hospital.

Harry H. Baldwin of No. 33 Farragut street, West Somerville, the driver of the auto truck, which is owned by the Standard Bottling & Extract Company, of No. 73 Harvard street, lost control of the machine as it was moving over Clarendon street.

Proposed Chemical Merger

Wall Street is greatly interested in the proposed merger of the Barrett, General Chemical, Semet-Solvay, Solvay Process and National Aniline Companies. Their combined capital consists of bond issues totaling $5,907,740 and stock issues of 26,294,660 shares of preferred, and 1,095,781 of common, of which all but the 295,990 shares of National Aniline are $100 par. The combined earning power cannot be estimated, but General Chemical and Barrett have shown consistently large earnings. From 1913 to 1919, General Chemical showed a range of earnings applicable to stock of from $2,809,442 in 1913 to $12,286,836 in 1916. In 1919 it earned $8,370,005. In first six months of 1920 General Chemical earned $13.46 a share on its common. Earnings of Barrett Co. in the same period have ranged between $1,835,311 in 1913 and $4,247,858 in 1916. Last year it earned $1,939,775 for dividends and the first six months of 1920 indicated a net for the year of more than $5,000,000.

SOFT COAL OUTPUT IS STILL BELOW NORMAL

The production of soft coal in this country is still below normal and for the week ended August 7 is estimated at 10,331,000 net tons, or 546,000 tons less than the output for the week immediately preceding the strike by miners in the Central West. The decrease is due chiefly, it is stated, to the delay in getting the order to resume work to all of the miners who quit.

But a statement from Washington is to the effect that all present indications point to an effective execution of the new program whereby bituminous mine operators and railroads propose to overcome the shortage. It is said that the experience of the last two weeks shows close co-operation of all interests involved, under the coal priority plan, is all that is needed to put an end to the emergency.

$8,000,000 LOAN FOR WESTERN RAILROAD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Approval of a loan of $8,000,000 to the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company, "to aid the carrier in meeting its collateral gold trust notes, due September 1," was announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The road is required to finance on a basis satisfactory to the commission the remaining $8,000,000 of its maturing obligation of $16,000,000. The road is a terminal line serving twelve trunk lines at Chicago.

Philippine Sugar Acreage

The Philippines will have a high record sugar production this year, according to the acreage devoted to cane. The planting for 1920 covered 550,000 acres, an increase of 20 per cent. over last year.

TONE IMPROVED IN BOSTON

Local Market Is Irregular During the Morning; Curb List Is Heavy

The Boston market was irregular at the opening and continued to be mixed as regards price movement all the forenoon. Trading was quiet, the market was narrow and fluctuations averaged small. In other words dealings on the local stock exchange had no new aspect. The undertone was fairly firm and the majority of active issues were a little higher. There was as little done in coppers as usual and they were heavy as a class. Packing issues were quiet and without any defined group movement. Osceola, Seneca and St. Mary's Land receded a point or more, while all advances were fractional.

Among stocks receded less than a point were Boston & Maine, East Butte, New England Telephone, Connor Co., Swift & Co. and International Products.

Small gains were made by American Telephone, Old Dominion, United Shoe, Ventura, Libby, Swift International, Bigheart and Amoskeag.

The Curb market was weak at the opening, but without much change in general. Early trading was a little broader perhaps, but the price movement was narrow. Among early leaders were Crystal, Eureka, Mexican Silver and Mutual. Strong issues at the start included Boston and Montana, Porcupine Premier and United Verde Extension, while weak ones were Bagdad, Daddy, Eureka Imperial, Mutual, Seven Metals and Manhattan.

At the end of an hour Crystal was up 3 cents at 31 cents and Mexican Silver 1 cent at 13 cents, while Eureka was off 1 cent at 29 cents, Bagdad 2 cents at 25 cents and Mutual ⅛, at 1.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES

The Manomet Mills Corporation is to erect in New Bedford a building to be used entirely for the opening and cleansing of raw cotton.

Island Oil & Transport shipments from Mexico during first nine days of August were 993,435 barrels.

It is reported from Tampico that the New England Fuel Oil Co. has brought in its No. 3 Pazzi well in Panuco field, Mexico, flowing 20,000 barrels a day. This is the second well of the same size the company has brought in within three weeks.

The report that the Pacific Mills would be closed for three weeks are denied. The mills will close Aug. 27 and reopen Sept. 7, which is the usual vacation time for the employes.

John A. Fenno was unanimously elected president of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad Monday to fill vacancy caused by death of Colonel Melvin O. Adams, who had occupied that post for many years. Karl Adams was elected treasurer to succeed Mr. Fenno. John H. Sullivan, acting superintendent of the road, was made superintendent. Charles J. Curtas was promoted to be clerk of the corporation.

July copper production by East Butte smelter was 1,537,880 pounds compared with 1,458,420 for the corresponding 1919 month and 1,396,140 for June this year.

John T. Connor Co. sales for the second quarter of this year were at an annual rate exceeding $14,500,000. Sales in 1919 totaled less than $8,500,000. Sales for the 1920 second quarter amounted to $3,531,901 as compared with $2,987,396 for the first quarter.

Lead and Spelter Firmer

There is a firmer tone to both the lead and spelter markets, but no improvement is reported in regard to copper. But it is said that red metal producers expect to do more business after this month. They are quoting 19 cents a pound for deliveries only until the end of October. An advance in the spelter price is expected before long. Stocks are not large and demand is slowly expanding. Lead consumers are now showing some nervousness lest the supply on hand may be greatly reduced before they can get deliveries of what they will need late in the year.

Cerro de Pasco Output

July copper production by the Cerro de Pasco Mining Company was 3,652,000 pounds, which is the smallest amount for any month so far this year. June production was 3,944,000 pounds and that for May was 6,830,000 pounds.

URGE POSTAL BAN OFF FILM

England Wants U. S. to Raise War-Time Prohibition From Parcel Post for Importers

London, Aug. 18.—Negotiations are being conducted by the American Chamber of Commerce in London with the Postmaster-General in Washington with a view to the removal of the present prohibition on the exportation by parcel post of cinematograph films other than those made of cellulose acetate.

This prohibition was instituted as a war measure, but is still in force, and is causing considerable hardship to importers of American films. Importers are required to pay on valuation, including forwarders' charges to the amount of 2 per cent. of the invoice value, and in some cases this rate is figured on the negative films, thus including the cost of the British film rights.

In its communication to the American Postmaster-General the Chamber of Commerce points out that all other countries in the Postal Union with the exception of the United States, handle films by parcel post and that films can be sent from Great Britain to the States by parcel post without restrictions.

SHIP PACT GREAT BOOM FOR GERMAN COMMERCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Approval of plans for the "interchange of courtesies" and a working agreement between the Hamburg-American Line and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation for trade between the United States and Germany will, in a short period, place Germany in its pre-war position of trade with the United States, shipping men declared.

During the last twelve months Germany has steadily increased its trade with the United States. It assumed the position of sixth largest purchaser of American made commodities during the last fiscal year. During the month of June it stood fifth among European nations purchasing American goods.

MAY OPERATE ON OLD OFFENDERS: "IN" 35 YEARS

Detroit, Aug. 18.—Allen Keflar and Joseph Lare, who have spent a great part of their thirty-five years of life behind prison bars, will probably go under the surgeon's knife for treatment to cure their alleged "criminal instincts."

They have been ordered by the court to a hospital for treatment.

PROPOSE TO DESTROY ALL BONDED LIQUOR

A Washington dispatch states that Federal officials whose duty is enforcement of the prohibition act have decided to ask for authority from Congress to destroy the liquor now held in this country under bond. It amounts to 50,000,000 gallons. The dispatch says:

"Most of the liquor now being sold illegally in many big cities came out of bonded warehouses in some mysterious manner, prohibition officials admit.

"The bonded liquor is worth at least $250,000,000, or at least $5 a gallon, according to present bootleg prices, but many drys point out that the liquor originally cost its owners much less than $5 a gallon."

WOMAN NEAR DEATH AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Beverly, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Elsie M. Larcom of No. 10 Home street, this city, narrowly escaped death in the presence of thousands of employes of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation when an automobile which she was driving was struck by a train on the crossing in the yard of the plant. The train was backing into the plant at a slow rate of speed when the accident occurred. Mrs. Larcom was uninjured.

LABOR BAN ON EUROPEAN WAR

Power for Peace Seen in Refusal to Move Munitions for Poland

Paris, Aug. 18.—Evidence that labor today holds Europe absolutely in its power was given Universal Service today when it learned that France, Germany, Belgium, England, Switzerland and Austria are literally dotted with cars of munitions, held up because they were en route to the Polish front.

The moment it became known that France was to ship immense quantities of munitions to Warsaw, the word was passed out from the Central Labor Committee in London:

"Do not allow a single cartridge to go through."

EMBARGO WIDE SPREAD.

The order was immediately put into effect by the well-oiled labor machine in Germany as well as in the allied countries, rapidly constituting a most effective "labor blockade" whereby France was prevented from rendering aid to Poland.

No less than twenty-four cars loaded with munitions were held up at Carlsruhe, Germany, Monday by trainmen refusing to run the trains. At the same time 4,000 dock workers at Antwerp dropped the work of loading two vessels when they learned that the cases marked "pianos" and "canned goods" were actually cases of munitions.

Dock workers at Brest, Havre and Bordeaux have already taken similar action.

DETERMINED ON PEACE.

The result is that even if the allies decided on a policy of helping both Poland and General Wrangel, it would be practically impossible to extend the help as labor's "no" would unquestionably be obeyed by Europe's super-organization through which 25,000,000 workers are determined to maintain peace.

PONZI'S NAME STARTS ROW IN BARBER SHOP

Haverhill, Aug. 18.—Anastas Genakas told Judge Cavin in the Central District Court that George Coronias called him an agent of Ponzi and when he remonstrated he beat him up, and to prove it showed the judge a discolored countenance. Genakas asserted that he tried to defend himself but was not able to do so. Coronias admitted that Ponzi's name was used in a heated argument with Genakas in a barber shop. He asserted that he was struck first, however. He was found guilty and fined $20.

DORCHESTER VOTERS DENY BEAN SIGNATURES

The Ballot Law Commission examined about forty witnesses who had been summoned by David T. Montague, counsel for Frederick F. Cook of Somerville, candidate for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State, who had protested the nomination papers of James W. Bean, of Cambridge, another aspirant for the nomination. More than half of the witnesses, residents of Ward 19, Dorchester, testified that they had not signed Bean's papers, and had authorized no one to sign for them.

HARDING WILL DESERT "PORCH" AFTER LABOR DAY

Marion, O., Aug. 18.—After an all-day conference with the candidate, the Republican managers who came here to lay out Senator Harding's speaking campaign up to October 1, announced that it was definitely settled that Senator Harding would make a front porch Labor Day address and would leave Marion that night to speak at the Minnesota State fair on September 8.

More than 500 requests for speeches from various parts of the country were on the table when the conference convened.

PAIR FIRST TO SWIM ACROSS LAKE CHAMPLAIN

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 18. — Paul Brummer of this city and Charles F. Branch, swimming instructor at the Burlington Community Beach, established a new swimming record in this vicinity by swimming across Lake Champlain, the first time that swimmers have been successful in completing the adventure. Brummer was in the water for seven hours and thirty-five minutes and Branch completed the swim in six hours and a half. The start was made from Willsboro Point, N. Y.

SOUTH BOSTON ITALIANS FORM POLITICAL SOCIETY

A number of Italian citizens at a meeting held in Columbus Hall, East Broadway, South Boston, formed an organization to be known as the Italo-American Citizen Club. It is expected that the club will take an active part in political matters of the district. Frank M. D'Angelo is the president; John P. Vaccaro, vice-president; S. Yavino, recording secretary; D. Piluso, N. Giuliano, A. Lentini, A. Conti, F. Pricmitta, C. Souro and F. Russo are directors.

RANDOLPH TAX RATE OF $36 BELIEVED A RECORD

What is probably a record tax rate was announced today by the Board of Assessors of the town of Randolph. The rate for the coming year, according to the announcement, will be $36. This will be an increase of $6.40 over the last tax rate.

It was also announced that the real estate valuation of the town is $2,-884,750 and the personal valuation $502,500, or a total of $3,351,250.

WIFE SLAYER SHOT TO DEATH RESISTING ARREST

Mahanoy City, Pa., Aug. 18.—In a rage of jealousy, John Snyder, aged forty, shot his wife, severely wounding her and in turn was shot to death when he resisted arrest. The double shooting occurred at Hosensack, near this place. The couple's four children witnessed the tragedy.

Taunton Boy Drowned

Taunton, Aug. 18.—James Hoffman, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoffman of Bay street, was drowned when he accidentally fell from Messer's bridge into Mill River.

$17 COAL PRICE PREDICTED

Dealers Claim Boost from $14.50 Per Ton Due to Rail Rate Increase

Coal will cost the consumer "$17 per ton or more," it is predicted today. The main reason for the jump from the present price of $14.50 is the advance in the rail rates. Transportation difficulties is also given as one of the contributing causes for the boost.

Boston dealers are watching for the report of the New England Coal Committee which met in Washington today.

One dealer declared that he had been given to understand that the price of anthracite at wholesale would be $16.25, which would result in a price of $17 or more to the retailer. The majority of dealers, while admitted that coal would cost more, declined to predict just how high the price would go.

ENGLISH LABOR COUNCIL CALLED BY LEADERS

London, Aug. 18.—William C. Adamson, Laborite member of the House of Commons, and Harry Gosling, head of the transport workers, who went to Paris as representatives of the British "Council of Action" to confer with leaders of French labor, returned today. They called a session of the "Council of Labor," an organization formed to direct the protests of British labor against another war.

DRUNK STARTED STORY OF RAILROAD DISASTER

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A false report of a passenger wreck on the South Shores electric interurban line and the killing of twenty-five persons east of South Bend, Ind., was started by an employe of a machine company, full of "white mule" liquor. Police of South Bend and Chicago and hundreds of autoists dashed madly about looking for the "wreck."

The Polish Situation

Poles in America Should Understand It

The men and women of Polish blood in this country are naturally and properly greatly exercised over the disaster that has overtaken Poland. They naturally and properly want to make every sacrifice and to do everything possible to prevent Poland from losing her status as an independent nation, to which the fortune of war restored her after centuries of suspended national animation.

Everyone wants to see Poland preserved as an independent nation. Everyone wants to see her have her ethnographic boundaries. Everyone wants to see her prosperous and as great as the industry, capacity and culture of her people can make her. No one wants her to be less than she is capable of being without unfairness to her neighbors.

But the Polish people in America should understand now and clearly that the question of their national independence is not at stake; that Russia never did and does not now intend to deprive her of her proper territory, or to exact of her any of those spoils which the victors claim in the war against Germany, and which victors have always claimed. Russia even offers Poland more territory than either the English or French thought she ought to have, and clearly more than she is entitled to have on ethnographical grounds.

What the Russians are determined to do IS TO PUT OUT OF POWER TO MAKE FURTHER TROUBLE THE GANG OF GREAT LANDLORDS WHO HAVE CONTROLLED THE POLISH GOVERNMENT, AND WHO HAVE PLUNGED HER INTO THIS ABYSS JUST AS THEY RUINED HER A CENTURY AGO.

When the Poles established their own government at the beginning of their independence, they established a just and peaceful government. But the French military and banking cabal and the Winston Churchills of England, having a design to use the poor Poles against Russia, and knowing that a government which had so large a peasant and workingmen's representation could not be so used, caused it to be overthrown and a government of great landlords set up.

This new government proceeded immediately to invade Russia. The Russian people probably did more than any other great nation in history to avoid this war with the Poles, and even allowed the Polish armies to march two hundred miles into Russian territory and occupy it for months without making an armed resistance. It was not until their forbearance was mistaken for weakness that they accepted Poland's challenge.

This "deliberate and wanton" attack on Russia was one more attempt of the privileged classes to overthrow the Russian Government, using the poor Poles in the forlorn hope, because the workingmen of France, England and Italy would not permit the shedding of French, British or Italian blood against the workingmen's and farmers' government of Russia.

Let the American Poles understand that the Russians are better friends to the Poles than the French or English or American banking interests.

Sartor—1920 Model

Mlle. Spinelly, the most daring dresser in the world, again startles Paris by appearing in an American made gown, most of which seemed to have been left in America.

It is something to be known as the most daring dresser on this planet, especially when among your competitors are the daring dressers of Zulu, Fiji and the South Sea Islands.

Mlle. Spinelly compliments the New York gownsters. She says our modistes are more chic than the Parisians and Parisiennes. It is unfortunate that her testimonial could not have been read by Emil Coudry before he shot his forty-two-year-old wife because she dressed like her twenty-one-year-old daughter. Mr. Coudry then shot his daughter—perhaps because she dressed like his wife.

A woman is no longer as old as she looks. She is older. Thanks to the present styles, a woman is as old as her dress looks. Mr. Coudry may have intended to shoot his wife for some other reason. Bewildered by the similarity of the present vogue in dress, he was forced to shoot both in order to be certain that he was getting the right one.

Knee-high skirts, waistless sleeves, sleeveless waists and V-backs are the invisible weapons of tailoring employed by Mlle. Spinelly in protecting her sartorial crown. The V-back has robbed woman of her most powerful argument in conversation—silent disdain.

In the old days, if a woman turned her back on a man, it was a mark of contempt.

Now, it is a compliment.

Make a God of Doing Things

One of the many foreigners who delight to "see America" and tell the home folks their impressions has just eased his mind in the Frankfurter Zeitung, most liberal of German newspapers.

Continental Europe long has believed Americans dollar mad. Our superior prosperity is regarded as convincing proof. This observer sees deeper. He writes:

Nothing is more false than to speak of the United States as the land of dollars and its people as dollar chasers. They make a god of doing things. Gold is only a pleasant incident.

Few really big and useful things can be done well without bringing money in reward. The superior artist, writer, preacher, teacher, surgeon, engineer, worker of any sort, is sought by those who would benefit by his skill. Their bidding fixes his price.

So in America the leaders in individual effort usually command incomes higher than elsewhere. Money is the most convenient measure of their success.

When a leader successfully guides others in a collective task he, too, finds the same rule at work. The peanut vender who evolves into a merchant prince becomes rich because he has succeeded. He could not hold his associates together if the store made no profit.

Of course, here as elsewhere, some men go money-mad. But they are never the successful men. No madman can be truly successful.

It is not greatly important, but it is pleasant, that mid-Europe should know the truth about its wrong concepts of Americans.

They Disagree Already

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Mr. McCay here pictures Uncle Sam as listening to the disputes of the two chief partitioners of war spoils and as being influenced by what he hears to keep out of the whole treacherous, war-breeding mess.

That is, we believe, the true attitude of the American people.

But the dispatch of American warships to the Baltic shows that our present Government is listening too much to the foreign voices. It has tasted imperial power. It has felt the intoxication of having a say and a hand in remaking the world's map. Men who wield such power seldom put it aside voluntarily.

So, if the "No!" which the cartoon puts into Uncle Sam's mouth is to have full force and effect, you, the people, must speak it.

More Truth Than Poetry

Heartfelt Sympathy

By S. E. KISER.

I'M worried about the man next door—
It's plain enough that something's the matter;
He's thinner, seedier than before,
But his wife is steadily growing fatter.
Their daughter is out night after night—
She's one of those girls who are dancing-crazy;
He has to hustle with all his might,
His women are sleek and plump and lazy.

HE looks to me like a weakling who
Is devoid of pep and has lost ambition;
His wife is proud and extravagant, too—
Not, you'll admit, an ideal condition.
Poor old ease! He looks all run down—
Creditors probably keep him guessing.
They say he owes people all over town
Because of his women's expensive dressing.

TOO bad that he hasn't the nerve to put
An end to his wife's absurd pretensions;
If he'd only come down with a heavy foot
It would end the arguments and dissensions.
A man is a fool who will waste his life
Slaving in ceaseless desperation
For thankless children or for a wife
Who lacks the sense of appreciation.

I SYMPATHIZE with the man next door—
But wait a moment. My wife is calling;
I suppose it's money she wants once more,
Again I can feel my spirits falling—
Yes, that was it. She must have a dress
For the party Mrs. Leroy is giving;
It's up to me to produce, I guess
That's about my only excuse for living.

A POOR FIGURE AT COURT

Lloyd George is accused of wearing a sloppy collar and trousers that bag at the knees. The latest pictures of him indicate that his mustache needs trimming, too.

Letters to the Editor

Nantasket Band

Editor Boston American:

Among the letters to the editor in Monday's American I found an article praising the band at Nantasket. I wish to call your attention to the fact that the writer, Charles Gorton, is the business manager for the Y. D. 29th Division Band, and that his article of praise, in which he states that many people claimed that his band played better music than other bands, is not fair. The Eighth Regiment Band played a splendid concert on August 4, and other first-class organized bands have been hired by the Metropolitan District Commission to furnish first-class concert music for the balance of the season.

DR. CHARLES A. DRAPER,
80 Boylston street.

Restaurant Prices

Editor Boston American:

Your blueberry pie and tomato editorials were timely. Keep up the good work and force profiteering restaurateurs to lower prices.

You say that Summer street, Boston, restaurants are charging at the rate of $1.20 for a blueberry pie and 35 cents an order for sliced tomato (about a quarter-pound tomato to the order). Contrast those prices with the following facts—my wife makes blueberry pies for our own consumption, using a full quart of berries to each pie, for 60 cents.

W. J.

The Saloon

Editor Boston American:

I read your sound editorial relative to the saloon. God grant such an evil will never return. The good already derived from prohibition is too obvious to enumerate its advantages. While as yet the evil is not wholly stamped out, nor will it ever be, there is such a depreciation in crime and the innumerable forms of evil that go hand in hand as a parallel force with alcohol that every right-minded man, disregarding his own incentive and personal liberty, should consider that the common good that it has done for us numerically is beyond all petty, selfish considerations.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.—Every morning I drive down town on the same avenue that is used by a bus line. It has been my custom, when I happen along just after a crowded bus, to sometimes pick up the leftovers—whatever their sex or age. Does this make me a curb-comber or an auto-lizard or whatever they are that the police are arresting? And shall I break myself of the habit or take a chance?

ERNEST ROBBINS.
New York.

DEAR ERNIE:
IF YOU'RE truthful.
AND YOU don't pick 'em out.
AND YOU'LL take boys.
OR OLD men.
OR MIDDLE-AGED women.
OR ANYBODY.
IF I were you.
I'D GO right on.
PICKING 'EM up.
I DO it myself.
ONCE IN a while.
AND ALWAYS
WHEN I deliver them.
I'M A whole lot happier.
THAN I would have been.
IF I'D gone on.
WITH AN empty car.
BUT I want to warn you.
THAT IF you're married.
IT'LL BE best.
TO TELL your wife.
BECAUSE ONE time.
I WAS held up.
WHEN A bus stopped.
AND THERE was a woman.
A YOUNG woman.
WITH A little baby.
AND SHE missed the bus.
AND LOOKED at me.
AND I took her in.
AND LET her out.
WHERE SHE was going.
AND ALWAYS
ON MY way down town.
I DRIVE through the park.
AND THAT night.
WE HAD company.
AND ONE of the company.
HAD PASSED me in the park.
AND BECAUSE she thought.
I WAS above suspicion.
SHE SPOKE about it.
AND NO man
IS ABOVE suspicion
IN HIS own home.
AND I explained.
AND THE woman's husband.
HE LAUGHED.
AND WE all laughed.
BUT ANYWAY
IT'S BEST to be careful.

I THANK you.

The inhabitants pay no taxes of any kind. HARVEST FOR BROADWAY RUNNERS OF RUM

By Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

THE wide-hatted, saddle-colored plotters of the little cafes of New Orleans have departed. The soft-spoken, well-mannered ammunition traders of El Paso and the border towns are in the oil business.

Revolutions are well-nigh a dead issue. The old-time filibuster and gun-runner has passed from the American continent. In his place has come the rum-runner—the rum-runner of Miami, and the Florida Keys, and of the Canadian line, and the rum-runner of old Broadway, New York.

You can see the latter any night in any one of the few remaining cabarets. The head waiter, if you know him, will be glad to point him out.

Made $100,000

Only the other night we saw a chap who never had more than a couple of quarters to rub together in his trousers pocket in the old days ride up in a limousine with a liveried chauffeur on the seat.

They say this fellow has made a hundred thousand dollars in a year. He got a little stake just before prohibition befell, invested it in liquor, and "mopped up." He is now one of the big rum-runners of the town.

Dearer Than Gold

The rum-runner of Broadway is little disturbed. He gets the liquor and sells it, and that's about all there is to it. Some of it is worth more per drop than pure gold. Some of it is liquor that you wouldn't have dared give the hired man in the old days. But it's all liquor, and so it all sells.

He can tell you more about prohibition than the average prohibitionist, and he does not try to delude himself into the belief that this country will ever again be wet.

"Not a chance," remarked one the other night when this subject was under discussion. "It's dry for good, and I'm glad of it. It's made plenty of money for me."

PERPETUAL MOTION IS STILL A LURE

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE following letter comes from a graduate of one of the greatest of our universities:

"I apply to you in order to clear a doubt in my mind. Is perpetual motion invented? If not, why not? Must we give up all hopes about this mysterious motion just because the great scientists have said that it is possible?"—Chemist."

Of course I do not intend to cast a slur on the universities, or to question the intelligence of "Chemist." I simply think it both interesting and important to note that an educated man, in the accepted sense of education, and one, moreover, who has pursued a "scientific course," with evident success as far as concerns his chosen career, nevertheless remains in doubt concerning the truth of one of the great, fundamental conceptions of modern science, the principle of the transformation and conservation of energy.

Clock as Example

To see the nature of the problem consider a clock. As its spring unwinds, or its weight descends, the wheels are driven round by the energy imparted by the spring or the weight. When either of them has run down the clock stops, and in order to set it going again outside force must be employed in rewinding.

The energy that first drove it has now been transmuted into other forms, which are no longer available to do mechanical work, and in order to do the same work again fresh energy must be put in from outside.

Energy is known to us in two phases, potential and kinetic. Potential energy is illustrated by the clock-weight wound up to its highest point but not yet released in order to begin its descent.

Energy Transformed

As soon as it does begin to descend its potential energy is transformed into kinetic energy, which drives the wheels of the clock. When the weight reaches the bottom all of its potential energy has been changed into kinetic energy, and all of this, in turn, has been expended in driving the mechanism, i. e., in doing work, and this expended energy, now altered into molecular forms, which we cannot here stop to trace, has disappeared, as far as the further running of the clock is concerned.

Whoever thoughtfully considers these facts will have no difficulty in understanding why science pronounces the perpetual motion machine to be a mechanical impossibility. Often the devices tried are very deceptive, but always the illusion can be run down.

PAY ATTENTION TO THE COOKING.

Too many wives are feeding their husbands nowadays on meals purchased at delicatessen shops.

Too much time given to frivolity and ease and not enough time spent in the kitchen.

It should be the desire of every girl to be a good cook before she gets married; if not before, certainly marriage should increase the desire.

Men who have had years and years of restaurant life and too many hotel meals may be prepared for that sort of thing by experience, but it is not what they are looking for when they decide they want to marry.

No matter how expensive nor how well cooked the meals in a regular eating establishment, a man tires of the fare and there is a longing for meals such as mother used to cook.

When a man marries and there is practically no change in these unpleasant conditions of bachelor life, he is bound to become dissatisfied—there is something lacking and he is disappointed.

The girl unwilling to do her part to make home happy should not marry.

If her husband has the means to provide help for her to do her work she is fortunate, but if not she should be glad to get good meals for her husband.
